Board Buys Old Ambulance.

Superintendent VanKeuren called the attention of the board to the fact that the police board offered to sell the old city ambulance to the board for $150 for use as a truck and he advised that the offer be accepted as the ambulance could be turned into a truck, which was needed. The board voted in favor of purchasing the old ambulance.

Building Applications Rejected.

Mary Matelskil applied for permission to erect a garage, store and dwelling at the corner of Clifton avenue and Lincoln street. The application was rejected on the ground that it was in the residential section.

The same action was taken in the application of Sam Cohen to alter the residence at 55 Clinton avenue into a shoemaker shop.

Bills and claims were read and the board then adjourned.

Prisoner Escapes From Court House

George Roberts of New Paltz is at large after making his escape from the court house about 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. He had been arraigned in New Paltz on a charge of rape and held to await the action of the grand jury.

He was brought to the court house on Wall street by State Troopers and before locking him in a cell in the county jail he said he would like to go to the toilet. The toilet is at the end of the hall, almost directly opposite the county treasurer's office on the first floor.

Jailer Evory, who was outside the court house, happened to glance up and saw Roberts climb out of the toilet window and gave the alarm.

The police department was notified and a general alarm sent out and it is expected that Roberts will be rounded up shortly.

MISS EMANUEL CLAIMS FELT SHOT HIMSELF

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Mystery today surrounds the shooting of Maurice R. Felt, 35, wealthy real estate operator, and former movie magnate, found seriously wounded last night at the home of Miss L. Emanuel, 26, in the Germantown district of Philadelphia, according to police.

Miss Emanuel was held by the police. She steadfastly maintains, detectives said, that Felt shot himself.

Felt was rushed to the Germantown hospital, where it was said his condition is critical. He is married and has one son.

Felt authorities said, was found lying across a bed with a pistol by his side. He was fully clothed, with blood streaming from a wound in his right temple. He was unconscious.

NEW YORK CENTRAL TRAIN DERAILED AT LITTLE FALLS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 30.—Nineteen cars of a New York Central freight train were derailed east of Little Falls, N. Y., on the Mohawk division at 7:10 o'clock this morning, said a report to the New York Central offices here. Traffic was delayed 28 minutes on the main line. No one was injured.

None of the cars turned over and workmen are expected to have them back on an outside track in a few hours, it was said. The derailment was attributed to a broken truck on one of the cars.

TERPENING CLOSES RETAIL CONFECTIONERY BUSINESS

Alonzo Terpening, after forty years in the retail confectionery business in Kingston, today closed his store at No. 56 Broadway and hereafter will devote his entire time to his large wholesale ice cream and candy business. During the many years that Mr. Terpening was engaged in the retail candy business down town he has become widely known and did a large retail confectionery business.

FIRE AVERTS PADLOCKING OF WALLKILL INN

The Wallkill Inn near Middletown was destroyed by fire early Tuesday. It was a well-known roadhouse built over 125 years ago, being one of the oldest inns in the state. It was to have beeen padlocked next week or the violation of the prohibition law.

Brown Goes to Convention.

Harris Brown of the Brown Tire Company left today to attend the annual eastern district convention of General tire distributors to be held at the Ambassador Hotel, Atlantic City on October 1 and 2. This Eastern convention is the first of the series of the General distributor meetings which are held in all sections of the country each year. All General Tire distributors in the section from Maine to Virginia will be present.

B. and O. Cars Derail.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Traffic between New York and Washington over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was halted several hours today when an engine and four freight cars were derailed on the outskirts to Philadelphia, according to word received by Baltimore and Ohio officials here. Traffic may be resumed shortly before noon, it was said.

Compromise May Settle French Debt Wrangle

Indications Are That Americans Will Lower Annual Payments From $160,000,000 to $130,000,000—Borah Informs President Coolidge That He Is Opposed To French "Protective Clause."

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 30.—As the French and American debt commissioners met here today in what may be the deciding session of the negotiations, apparently strenuous efforts were being made to win Senate consent to a program calling for considerable leniency to France in the matter of terms.

On the heels of a visit paid to Senator Curtis, the Republican leader of the Senate, by a delegation of French commissioners, with a plea for leniency, President Coolidge summoned Senator William E. Borah, Republican of Idaho, to the White House and discussed the debt controversy at some length.

The president found Borah adamant in his position that France could and should settle on terms approximating the terms extended to Great Britain, and other nations.

Opposed To "Out" Clause.

Borah made it plain to the president that he was opposed to the "protective clause" insisted upon by the French, under which the agreement would be virtually nullified if circumstances arise in the future affecting French capacity to meet the annual installments.

"I see no need for such an 'out' clause," said the Idaho senator. "France is able to pay.

"This is a matter strictly between France and the United States. French understandings or arrangements with Germany of Great Britain are none of our concern."

Compromise Indicated.

The meeting at noon was arranged for a discussion of the proposed "protective clause" and also to discuss the size of the annual payments. Indications were that a compromise would be offered by the Americans on these payments, $130,000,000 annually being suggested instead of the $160,000,000 originally requested.

Americans Make Concessions.

The American commissioners have made substantial concessions to the French viewpoint, and M. Caillaux's pleas of his country's impoverishment. These concessions are understood to be considerably greater than have been accorded the seven other debtor nations that have come to the treasury window and taken up their notes. In fact, they are said to be so pronounced that administration leaders are uneasy over the attitude the Senate will take toward them.

M. Caillaux, however, is still not satisfied. Throughout all of yesterday and most of last night he had his experts laboring upon an array of statistics, the purport of which is to show why France cannot meet the terms proposed by the Americans and upon a new "counter offer" to put forth as an alternative to the American plan.

Resent French Action.

Keen resentment was aroused in American circles today when it developed that a delegation of French commissioners had called upon Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican leader of the Senate, and put up a plea for lenient terms for France.

To some of the American commissioners this action smacked too much of "appealing to the Senate over the commission's head," and while it is unlikely anything will be done about it, the fact did not heighten the cordial feeling between the envoys.

It was pointed out that Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, is the Senate's representative on the commission, as well as one of the Senate's leaders, and he should have been qualified to acquaint the French as to the Senate's attitude, if there was any doubt on that score. Smoot is opposed to any more lenient terms for France than were given Britain.

Senator Curtis conferred with Secretary Mellon concerning the situation this morning.

Treasury Officials Optimistic.

Notwithstanding the still wide distance between what M. Caillaux is will to undertake, and what the Americans think France can and should pay, the prevailing opinion among treasury officials today was still one of optimism. They believe an agreement will be reached before Caillaux leaves Washington tomorrow.

Actual Figures Still Hidden.

While the actual figures on both sides still remain hidden behind a mask of official silence, it is understood a difference of $30,000,000 in small payments still exists between the two commissions. This in addition to the "out" clause which the French demand and which, in American opinion, would nullify the whole agreement. This "out" clause would relieve France of meeting her annual payments if at any time Germany fall down in her reparations payments, of if circumstances arise during the next 62 years that are "out of French control."

Might Reach Compromise.

It was suggested in semi-official quarters today that a compromise might be reached on these two problems—the French agreeing to abandon their demand for the protective clause in return for still further concessions in the matter of annual payments.

A meeting of the American commission was called this morning to consider the latest private exchanges that have taken place between Secretary Mellon and Mr. Caillaux.

A joint session of the French and American commissions was arranged for 12 o'clock noon.

Rienzo's Auto Wrecked.

It was reported to the police department Tuesday afternoon that while Charles Rienzo of 35 Lindsley avenue was turning from Foxhall avenue into Albany avenue his car was struck by a Mack truck owned by Michael Colfredi and driven by Nelson Cantine. The Rienzo car was totally wrecked. Neither of the men was injured.

City Hunters Are Guilty.

People who hunt for pheasants on the lowlands in the rear of Albany and Manor avenue run the risk of going to jail. First, it is a misdemeanor to discharge firearms in the city, and second, it is a grave misdemeanor to hunt on any one's land without express permission. The days of promiscuous shooting have passed.

Mitchell Blames Navy for Crash Of Shenandoah

Colonel Mitchell on Witness Stand for Six Hours Concludes Testimony Placing the Blame of Shenandoah Disaster on the Navy Department—Explains How Trip Violated Law.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Colonel "Billy" Mitchell sprang a sensation before the president's air board today by directly blaming the navy department for the Shenandoah disaster and the failure of the PN-9 Honolulu flight.

Sending the ill-fated dirigible across the mountains to the west was a direct violation of law, while the management of the unsuccessful Hawaiian flight was "the work of bungling amateurs," Mitchell charged.

Biting criticism came from Mitchell as he again levelled fire at the present administrators of the air arm, which he charged with "smothering" aviation. Their inefficiency and mismanagement, he said, have reduced America to easy prey to every first class power.

Mitchell called upon the opinion of military experts the world over to bolster up his contentions of the efficacy of a unified air corps.

Trip Violation of Law.

"I say that the Shenandoah trip was a violation of law because, except in time of war, all flying work over the land must be handled by the army, not the navy," Mitchell declared. "By no stretch of the law did the navy have the right to send that ship all over the mountains."

Mitchell read the law governing this point and then scathingly denounced the navy for its "miserable judgment," in ordering a dirigible over the Ohio Valley in the face of storms that rage at this time of the year.

"It was just like sending a ship out to sea without life preservers or life boats," he said.

Attacks Arctic Expedition.

The navy—MacMillan's Arctic expedition also drew Mitchell's rapid fire attack.

"That was certainly haphazard work" he said. "The planes in the Arctic were designed for use in the tropics and along the Atlantic Seaboard."

Mitchell's startling accusations of "criminal negligence" of the air force fairly stunned the crowd. Everybody in the room leaned far forward to catch every word.

All the while Mitchell brought into play all his batteries in attacking the army and navy. He constantly read from a mss of documents to substantiate his charges.

Non-Fly Officers Unfit.

"These disasters have been heaping up and heaping up," added Mitchell. "These are the things you can always expect if you leave aviation in the grasp of non-flying officers—they have neither the ability nor the judgment to control our air services.

"Aviation is a new science. It requires specialized training. Non-flying officers can't be entrusted with that job," said Mitchell.

"Our flyers are disgusted and our equipment is denuded.

"Take the Pn-9 again for instance. Tests showed that it could never have reached Honolulu with one charge of gasoline. And yet it was sent out. When it became lost, the navy department did not use all the best services it could have had in finding the plane.

"All these things have broken the camel's back. We are in deplorable condition."

Staff Officer is Blamed.

Interrupting his testimony Mitchell directed his fire at a general staff officer whom he saw sitting behind the board.

"There's a staff officer taking down everything that is said here, in order to run with it to the war department," interjected Mitchell.

"Does that bother you," asked Representative Vinsen, Democrat, of Georgia, a member of the board.

"No, it does not," snapped Mitchell. "I don't care what they do. But I'll tell you this, it does affect the testimony of other pilots there. It retards a free discussion of their views. It is coercion. They hesitate to tell the truth when they must disagree with their superiors."

Explains Violation.

Vinson pressed Mitchell closely about the Shenandoah disaster.

"Why was sending the Shenandoah overland a violation of law?" asked Vinson.

"Because the national defense act specifically provides that all planes operating from land bases must be controlled by the army," replied Mitchell.

"The Shenandoah was on a purely propaganda [illegible]. The sending of the Shenandoah was an order from non-flying [illegible], and that too was an [illegible] not [illegible] disobedience of [illegible]. The navy [illegible] officers [illegible] control aircraft [illegible] the [illegible] of the fact that [illegible] dered [illegible] dirigible were [illegible] flyers.

Hope Wanes As Work On S-51 Is Abandoned

Rough Sea Again Forces Wreckers and Divers Out of Action—Further Rescue Attempts On Hulk May Be Deserted and Operations Confined to Salvage—Hope of Finding Men Alive About Abandoned.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New London, Conn., Sept. 30.—All operations at the wreck of the S-51 with 31 missing men aboard were abandoned for the day. This announcement was made this morning at the local submarine base nearly 108 hours after the fated submersible plunged to the bottom with nearly all on board. Only three survived the crash with the City of Rome and of the 33 men who plunged with the ship, just two bodies have been recovered.

The latest developments by which first the wrecking ships and then divers were retired from action for the day meant the end of all hope that life might still exist aboard.

Just when operations might be resumed, local naval authorities were unable to say, everything depending upon the condition of the sea. It was safe to predict, however, that were the salvagers to return it will be with the intention of recovering what bodies they may run across in the water logged maw of the submersible. Even optimistic naval men were willing to concede that hope was all but extinct, after they were informed that neither divers nor cranes could be used during the ensuing hours of daylight.

Wreckers Forced Back.

The wreckers Monarch and Century put out of Newport for the scene of the disaster shortly after midnight. They put back two hours later without having reached their destination, owing to heavy weather. It was the second time in two days that they had been forced out of action.

It was then planned to send divers down to reconnoiter, with a special effort being made to locate more bodies of the victims. They were to push forward through the brine and wreckage of the battery compartment, try to reach the torpedo room door and discover its secret. If open, it would mean that all in the forward end of the ship were drowned. If closed there still would remain a faint hope.

But the divers were unable to attain their objective, the pitching waves and a strong, rip tide making the undertaking so precarious that it was decided nothing further could be done today unless a sudden and wholly unexpected change in the weather took place.

Rodgers Incident Cited.

However, Captain Ernest J. King, commandant at the local base, declined again to concede that all hope for the lives of those on board had failed.

"You have the Rodgers incident to prove what can happen in a disaster of this kind," he said. "There were men in this case who lived fourteen days on the open sea on a bit of wreckage. It is human to cling to a thin thread of life and not until the S-51 is raised or plumbed to its depths and life found extinct will I give up hope."

"But there must be some time when you will have to concede that no man can be alive on the wreck," it was pointed out. "When would you say that that time had arrived?"

"A week from now, perhaps longer," was the reply.

Operations Not Possible.

The message notifying the New London base that operations had ceased, read as follows:

"Present weather conditions make operations not possible."

It was sent at 7.51 a. m., and according to local forecasts, there was not much chance that conditions would change before nightfall. That would mean that the derrick would remain out of commission until tomorrow, since the wrecking company already has notified Captain King that it cannot operate its crane after [illegible] to daylight.

Menace to Divers' Lives.

"As for the divers," he said, "[illegible] are so bulky that it would be a positive menace to their lives to put them over the side when waves are kicking up. There [illegible] northeaster blowing and there [illegible] sudden lurch might throw one of [illegible] top heavy divers over board. It would mean certain death, even if [illegible] didn't strangle. The [illegible] would [illegible]. The [illegible] for [illegible] Block Island. If we have a [illegible] we would have to [illegible] [illegible] from the [illegible] the [illegible] directed.

Planned to Lift Stern.

It was [illegible] of the salva[illegible] [illegible] for what bodies there [illegible] covered.

be in the forward end of the compartment.

"If the door between the two compartments was found open, we planned to use the salvage air pumps to lift," Captain King said. "We would have done the same thing, if doors were open in the after part of the ship. Now, we can do nothing for the time being.

"Our hope for the men is almost negligible of course. Yet hope by no means has departed altogether. They have food aboard but they cannot get to it and sooner or later they must starve. But that time is not yet."

Hold Body of Teschemacher.

Orders were issued from the local base to the naval hospital at Newport that the body of William C. Teschemacher be kept there for several days in the hope that that of his twin brother, Frederick Peter, might be recovered and both sent together to the Bangor, Pennsylvania home of the family. This arrangement met with the consent of the father, Frederick Teschemacher, and a brother, Carl, who are here.

May Abandon Rescue Attempts.

It developed today that unless operations on the S-51 could be resumed in a serious way in the next twenty-four hours, that a recommendation might be made to the navy department to abandon further rescue attempts on the hulk and confine operations to salvage. This was taken to mean that hope of finding any of the 31 men aboard alive had just about been abandoned.

In case salvage proceedings are instituted, it was explained that divers would descend with under seas cutting tools, bore holes in the sides of the ship blow the water out with compressed air. The cranes would be used to get the ship started out of the mud then it would be floated to the surface on pontoons.

Abandon Search For Bodies.

It was estimated that more than a week would be required to carry this operation to a successful conclusion. Meantime, search for bodices, of necessity, would have to be abandoned.

Decision on what recommendation will be made to the navy department, if rescue efforts during the next twenty-four hours fail, will be left to Admiral Christy, in charge of operations.

Full Honors For Gibson.

The widow of John L. Gibson, whose body was the first of two to be taken from the derelict, visited Lieutenant Commander Flannigan today to request that her husband's body be held for several days. She said she wanted Gibson buried with full naval honors and preferred to postpone the ceremonies in the hope that bodies of other victims with homes in New London might be recovered and a general service performed for all.

The navy has a special section of the local cemetery for burial of men who died in the performance of duty.

Frederick Teschemacher, Sr., father of the twins who went down on the stricken craft, also visited the local base and informed Lieutenant Commander Flannigan that he wished to avoid the ordeal of looking upon the immobile features of his son, William C. Teschemacher, whose body was the second to be recovered. The father, who came here from Indianapolis, said that he preferred to wait until the body of the other son, Frederick Peter Teschemacher, was recovered before looking upon the remains of the boys.

Auto Most Useful But Also Deadly

Automobile Casualties in Two Years Exceeded America's World War Casualties During Same Period—Necessity of Punishing Law Violators.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, Sept. 30.—The automobile in its short existence has proved to be the most useful instument ever placed in the hand of man and at the same time it has been proved that it is the most deadly and, so far as this nation is concerned, it has been more destructive of human life and limb than all the instruments of war.

That is the declaration made today by Judge Alva R. Corlett of Cleveland speaking before the Fourteenth Annual Safety Congress of the National Safety Council in this city.

"The Noanderthal Man with his receding brow, flat skull, limited craneal capacity, and glaring eyes suffers little in comparison with our modern speed demons either in physical resemblance or in the number of victims, said Judge Corlett. "Let us realize the seriousness of this by keeping in mind that our automobile casualties in 1917 and 1918 were 427,000 and that American casualties in the world war for the same period were 317,387 and that in seven years the figures have more than doubled for last year automobiles of this country killed 20,000 and injured 600,000.

"Thousands of traffic laws have been passed by legislative bodies in every state and city and village in the United States and most of them are either unenforced or inadequately enforced most of the time. And yet in many instances where serious efforts have been made to enforce the law the results would seem unmistakably justify the adoption as a permanent policy of certain measures that have proved effective.

"The most potent influence to declare the lawless from committing crimes and violating laws is the fear of punishment that is certain, adequate and impartially administered without fear of favor. Fear is a most impelling force and the fear of the law is the beginning of good citizenship. Fear of the law alone can never make good citizens of all offenders, but the punishment imposed should be sufficient to impress them with the seriousness of their transgression and the importance, if they are to retain their freedom, of doing the things that are right rather than the things that are wrong. Strict enforcement of the law creates not only fear of the law but a healthy respect for it.

"In Cleveland as in other cities the traffic laws have met with a varied experience and yet there can be no further doubt as to the effectiveness of certain measures. Mere nominal fines have not, determined the lawless while jail sentences have. When there has been lack of law enforcement deaths have increased from 50 to 80 per cent and when the penalties have been adequate, certain and impartially administered deaths have decreased 50 per cent."

Judge Corlett reviewed the fact that cleaning up traffic in Cleveland resulted in a 200 per cent increase in traffic accidental deaths.

"Too much speed under the circumstances is a primary cause of traffic accidents, said Judge Corlett. "Of course, congestion is a contributing cause. Many and perhaps a majority of pedestrians are injured because of their own carelessness. But the primary responsibility must always rest upon the driver because it is he who controls the instrument that does the damage.

"We must have a driver's license law to eliminate the mentally and physically unfit. It is just as foolish and silly to employ the police to chase pedestrians from the path of the ignorant and insane drivers, who may now be licensed to drive, as it would be for the police to run down the street warning people of the approach of an intoxicated or insane man with a loaded gun.

"Likewise, impounding the car and freeing the driver is about as fallacious as it would be to impound the gun and free the one charged with carrying it. Impounding cars more often punish the guiltless while the guilty go free, because the majority of drivers do not own the cars they drive. This includes truck and cab drivers, members of families with cars owned by another.

"We should strive for uniformity throughout the country and traffic laws and regulations and the enforcement of such measure as have proved effective to the constant and unrelenting.

"If the fear of punishment and respect for law is the conduct of drivers, then the pernicious system of rotating or changing judges which exist in many cities would be abolished and traffic judges who have proved their worth would be retained in traffic courts. Under the present system a severe judge may be succeeded by one very lax. Then the ban is lifted and the casualties increase until the lenient one is replaced by a judge more severe and the ban is on again, a new crusade is conducted for a time until another change so that the public and particularly drivers lose respect for courts, law and order generally.

"Every community must realize that traffic violations like all crimes can be repressed or reduced to a minimum only by constant and unremitting policy by strict law enforcement.

"Another thing that experience has demonstrated is the fact that at least a majority of those driving cars are irresponsible financially and in case of accidents often causing death and very serious injuries they are unable to respond in damages to those they have injured. This condition should be remedied by providing compulsory liability insurance similar to the industrial liability insurance enforced in many states. In case of accidents there should be a substantial increase in the premium charge and if a serious accident was caused by the driver's fault both the driver's license and insurance should be revoked.

It is an absurdity to complain about congestion while foolishly allowing the use of streets for storage purposes. A few people should not be permitted or licensed to do a thing to the great detriment or inconvenience of vast numbers of people.

"The great majority of our citizens are law abiding and only the selfish few are lawless and this fact should encourage us to insist upon a policy of strict law enforcement as one very important means of insuring the highest degree of public safety."

Halcyon Days

According to Greek mythology Alcyone, or Halcyone, the daughter of Aeolus, married Ceyx. Ceyx was drowned, and Alcyone, on learning his fate, threw himself into the sea The gods were moved by the tragedy of the young lovers; they brought them back to life in the form of halcyons, or kingfishers, and they decreed that for the seven days from December 22 to December 29, the sea should remain calm, while the seabirds built their nests upon it. Those seven days, the last of the year, are therefore called halcyon days, days of tranquility.

Denies Plot to Kill King George

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 30.—Flat denial of reports that Scotland Yard has uncovered a plot to assassinate King George was made today by Sir Wyndham Childs, head of Scotland Yard.

"There is not one single word of truth in the story of a plot to assassinate the King," said Sir Wyndham.

The report which did not receive wide circulation in England, stated that the alleged plot had been uncovered from Communist documents seized by the police. In this connection it was pointed out that forged Communist documents have been widely circulated in Europe during recent months and the report may have originated from such a document.

A German named "Werner" and a Russian, were supposed, according to the denied report, to have been told off to carry out the assassination plot.

In view of the growing conflict in Great Britain between Communists and Conservatives, thinking people are taking with great reserve of both pro-communist and anti-communist stories, which are being widely circulated.

Must Make Opportunity

Time and tide, the adage says, wait for no man; neither does anything else that nowadays is run on schedule. The great struggle of modern life is to make connection with opportunity, for this makes possible success.—Grit.

Flare Is Feature of New Fall Duds

Coats and Dresses Become Wider From Waistline Downward.

In discussing the fall fashions in women's coats and dresses, especially apparel for the young lady who is attending school, a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune says:

Let us start with the coat or cape as a beginning and work inward. Coats for autumn are more ample, surely from the waist downward, and most of them are made from beautiful rough materials with an incredibly soft, long nap, something like velvet. They are marked with the designs you see in men's overcoats and winter suits—chevrons, zigzag stripes, shadow plaids and small irregular diamonds. The outside of these winter coats is usually of some neutral tint like smoke gray, dull bois du rose, light brown or bright navy blue, and the inner side is of a bright color, so that many of them are made without linings. Coats are made with flaring backs, many of them swinging free from the shoulders, and are quite straight in front with diagonal closings or else are buttoned up to the chin. Jenny makes the backs of her youthful coats plaited from a deep shoulder yoke, which is very attractive if the material is not too heavy. Chanel buttons some of her coats straight down the center front from the chin. They have round collars of material or fur which frame the face and flare from the shoulders at the side and back.

Double-Faced Materials.

Some of the most attractive French costumes for the high school girl are three-piece, being composed of a cape and sports suit. Lucien Lelong makes these suits of double-faced material with circular full-length capes that fit the shoulders and show double-breasted jackets with front-plaited skirts. The interior of the cape is a bright color, and the skirt is also made of this brilliant side of the material. Another version of the three-piece suit, from Vionnet, shows a cape of gray lined with bright blue and a gray dress of frisca over which is worn a double-breasted vest of bright blue.

School dresses have jumper bodices and either circular or plaited skirts. Popular materials are a loose-woven fabric called kasha natte, frisca and cashmere. Remember that the jumper should be considerably shorter than last season, reaching just to the hips and no farther, and that the sleeves must be loose at the top. Standing band collars have, to a great extent, replaced the familiar round collar. Some of these collars have long bands that tie in front, on the shoulder or in back, and others have the band opening in front into a V. Martial et Armand have a dress for the young girl made of bois du rose cashmere with straight unadorned front and jacket back, split at the center, with rounded corners joining at the round neck collar. The back of the skirt is fully gathered and has apron ties. This creates a new and youthful line that gives a little relief from the familiar jumper bodice. However, the simple jumper frock of any of the new woolens, either patterned or plain with a rough surface, is the popular Paris entry for the Prix de la Jeune Fille.

Every amusing fantasy of trimming is possible in the simple jumper frock. Naturally there must be nothing that detracts from its line, for half its charm lies in the silhouette with that lower skirt fullness that allows perfect freedom of movement without destroying the harmony of line. The newest decoration is a band of fine shirring that may be placed on collar, cuffs and also at the hem, while it is also being introduced on skirt pockets or wherever the ingenuity of the designer suggests.

For informal parties and afternoon wear there are innumerable dresses of crepe and velvet combined, or crepe and cashmere. Jenny makes charming frocks of crepe de chine in soft shades of capucines, bois du rose, madonna blue and green and trims them with collars, cuffs and bands of velvet in the same tone. Madeleine Vionnet makes some of her young girl frocks of wool and bands them with a lighter-toned crepe de chine. Lace collars and cuffs are also seen on some of these frocks.

The Circular Cut.

Skirts show a preference for the circular movement, although plaits are also prominent. The godet is not used so much as either full or half-circular skirts. Plaited dresses of crepe de chine, banded in wool of the same shade or a lighter or darker tone of it are being offered by such houses as Chanel, Premet and Martial et Armand. These dresses are shown with sweaters of the wool banding; that is, a reseda green crepe de chine dress, plaited from a deep shoulder yoke and having a hem, pipings and collar and cuffs of dark green kashanatte, is worn with a sweater of the same fabric that fastens straight down the center front with green bone buttons and is banded with the lighter crepe de chine. Sometimes, particularly in the models of Madeleine Vionnet and Lucien Lelong, the sweater is replaced by the double-breasted sleeveless jacket. Sweaters and jackets of shadow plaid are worn with plain circular skirts of wool and with long coats or capes of plaid in order to give warmth when needed.

The young girl's dance frocks and general party dresses for early autumn have very full skirts indeed, and many of them have straight bodices that are cut to the normal waistline or at the longest, not lower than high on the hips. A dance dress of this type, from Drecoll, is made of dull orange velvet with a straight bodice, cut to a V in front and back, and a skirt made very full with circular gores. It is new and entirely charming. Lelong has an attractive party frock for the young girl made of white crepe de chine with a skirt that is made full by means of godets all around, and a straight square-necked bodice. Over this is worn a sleeveless jacket of rose-colored velvet, surplice in front and tied in a sash at the back. Doucet has a debutante's dance frock made of madonna-blue tulle with a V-necked bodice and a godeted skirt, worn over a straight slip of cream-colored lace.

For Hop and Prom.

Louise Boulanger offers a unique party frock for the young girl, made of white and silver crepe with a straight bodice and long sleeves, bishop in cut, slit from wrist to the front and side of the armhole. The skirt is very full in front and has a butterfly sash of silver tulle placed at the waistline in front only. Capes of velvet or coats of velvet and lame brocade are worn with such frocks. Scarf collars are more often shown than collars of fur.

The guiding principle for the modern young girl in choosing her wardrobe is simplicity. In later years she can cover herself with embroidery and elaboration if she will, but if she is wise, or her parents are, she lets youth reap the full advantage that is given it by a charming, slim figure and a fresh complexion, and lets her frocks form a setting rather than fill the foreground of the picture.

Naturally, the simplicity will vary directly with the age of the girl, and it will not do to deny the budding college undergraduate some of the frills and furbelows of the post-debutante, particularly in evening clothes. For girls still in the secondary schools, however, the American tradition of unaffected simplicity should be followed without deviation.

Give Piquant Touch

Two of the outstanding French designers are making extensive use of the watch fob as a trimming for the plain white flannel frocks now being worn. The black fobs bearing a sparkling ornament peep out of a breast pocket or from a receptacle at the wrist. Black and white leather belts also give a touch of piquancy to the simple costumes.

City Regulations Are Disregarded

Householders and Janitors In Some Sections Disfigure Streets With Ashes and Garbage a Day Ahead of Time Allowed.

The city's regulation covering the collection of garbage and ashes which have been in force for many years and which should be known to every householder are being disregarded in a number of cases in various sections of the city. Certain days of the week have been set aside for the collections in certain sections of the city. There are many cases, for instance, where collections are every Tuesday morning but some householders and janitors make a practice of putting out the garbage and ashes on Sunday night, leaving it stand in front of the house or place of business as the case may be over Monday.

The city's regulations require that the garbage and ashes must be placed on the outer sidewalk "the night before or early on the morning of the day appointed for the removal of same." There is no reason or excuse for putting out the ashes and garbage several days before the collection day, and it is likely that the city authorities will take steps to see that the above provision is enforced.

Ashes and similar refuse are placed on the streets ahead of time more frequently than garbage, and with the coming of cold weather the offense has become very noticeable.

The City's Regulations.

The city's regulations concerning removal of ashes and garbage, and the collection districts, undoubtedly are unfamiliar to new residents as well as to those who have removed from one section to another.

Ashes and garbage will be taken up and removed by the street department, from the several garbage districts, as follows:

District No. 1—All of the First ward and all of the Twelfth ward.

District No. 2—All of the Tenth ward and all of the Eleventh ward.

District No. 3—All of the Second ward and all of that portion of the Third ward west of Foxhall avenue, and all of that part of the Ninth ward from the West Shore railroad to Andrew street, inclusive.

District No. 4—All of the Third ward east of Foxhall avenue and all of the Fourth ward and all of the Fifth ward.

District No. 5—All of the Sixth ward and all of that portion of the Seventh ward between Home street and Broadway, both inclusive.

District No. 6—All of the Eighth ward and all of that portion of the Ninth ward from Orchard street to Andrew street, and all of the Thirteenth ward below and south of the septic tank on south Wilbur avenue.

All garbage, such as ashes, yard and walk sweepings and gutter cleanings will be removed once each week as follows:

From District No. 1 on Mondays.
From District No. 2 on Tuesdays.
From District No. 3 on Wednesdays.
From District No. 4 on Thursdays.
From District No. 5 on Fridays.
From District No. 6 on Saturdays.

Garbage known as "swill" and kitchen refuse will be removed twice each week as follows:

From all that upper portion of the city, north and west of the West Shore railroad, on Mondays and Thursdays.

From all that lower portion of the city, from the West Shore railroad and east of Broadway, inclusive, on Tuesdays and Fridays.

From all that lower portion of the city, from the West Shore railroad on the west of Broadway, inclusive, on Wednesday and Saturdays.

Swill and vegetable matter must be placed in cans or other receptacles and covered and kept separate from ashes and other garbage, as required by the board of health, and all garbage, such as ashes, sweepings, etc., must be placed in cans, barrels, boxes or other receptacles convenient for handling, and placed out at the outer side of the walk the night before or early on the morning of the day appointed for removal of same as designated in this notice.

More Brick Sold, Price Lower

Hudson River District Shipments 35 Million Above Corresponding Period Last Year—Lower Price In 1925 Helps Stabilize Building Materials Market.

Many authorities have recently warned the public of the rapid approach of a lumber famine. Fortunately for the building industry, as well as the prospective home owner, the exhaustion of the lumber supply will not necessitate a cessation of building.

Many other materials, such as stone, brick, etc., are available in what would seem to be inexhaustible quantity. Although the use of brick has increased from 4,751,000,000 in 1919 to 4,600,000,000 in 1924, according to Department of Commerce figures, manufacturers still have what practically amount to unlimited resources from which to obtain clay for brick manufacture.

That the building public is currently using a greater volume of brick is evidenced by figures compiled showing shipments by Hudson river manufacturers of common brick. Using 1919 as a basis, these statistics show that production for the years 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924 increased 71, 105, 131, and 119 per cent, respectively. Estimates for 1925 to date indicate shipments of about 35 million above the same period last year from the Hudson river district.

According to the Engineering News Record, prices to dealers in New York for the current year have averaged $15 per thousand as against about $20 for the same months in 1924, furnishing a concrete demonstration of the refusal of brick manufacturers to increase prices, thereby contributing their share toward stabilizing the material markets. Stocks on hand at this time are considerably below the same date in 1924, but there is no present indication of a shortage.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 30, 1925.

Kingston has reason to feel satisfied with the new street signs erected by the board of public works. The person who thought of having the signs painted on both sides, thereby making it possible for two signs to do the work of four, is worthy of strong commendation. The only purpose of signs is, or ought to be, to give information clearly, and this the new signs do. The board cannot be too highly praised for restraining the artistic impulse that has run away with officials in some cities where artistic appearance rather than legibility seems to have governed the designing of street signs. Kingston should have more of these signs and they should be properly cared for and maintained.

That an order for the abandonment of the Colonial Division of the trolley road will be granted is certain. That a bus service will be established is not so certain, owing to the senseless position taken by the mayor and common council, who seem to forget that private enterprises cannot be compelled to establish or operate a business at a loss. The trolley company's offer to establish a bus service and enlarge it if needed is fair and should have been accepted promptly. The demand that human life is endangered by compelling the busses to make through trips, using the Broadway grade crossing, is inconsistent and wrong. In view of the fact that trolley cars must use the subway, in the interest of time and safety, the attempt to force busses to use the grade crossing is absurd. But election day is near and it seems impossible for politicians of a certain type to realize that all of the people are not fools.

The Municipal Business Men's Association of New York city voted by ballot recently on the repeal of the Volstead Law, 460 voting for repeal, 10 against and 30 not voting. Five hundred representative business men were asked to vote This is the usual result when organizations of business men, industrial groups, etc., vote and there is no public and personal responsibility on the part of the individuals voting their real opinions. But when by standing up publicly and advocating the repeal or modifying of the Volstead Law these men might accomplish something, they fail to do so, for the reason that they are cowards, afraid to face the pious billingsgate of intemperate reformers. If an abusive and noisy minority had not scared cowardly legislators there would have been no Eighteenth Amendment and no Volstead Law and there would have been no need for effort on the part of the majority to reclaim its rights.

OUR SAILORS ABROAD.

It was known several weeks ago that our visiting fleet was given a hearty welcome in Australian and New Zealand ports, for in his farewell message on leaving Melbourne in August Admiral Coontz said that in all his experience he had "never seen such an outpouring of friendship and kindness on the part of each and every one, high and low," and the American sailors were at the same time reported as saying that they had had "the best time on earth" while entertained by the citizens in their homes, given the free use of automobiles and taken on excursions to points of interest. Of course there was also a ball every night and dancing with pretty girls to the limit of the heart's desire. No wonder the "farewell American toast"—forgetful of distant Volsteadism—was "Happy memories."

But it is only now that we are hearing, through Australian newspaper comment, more about the impression made by our officers and men in that far-off land. The Melbourne Sun, for example, is quoted as saying, in regard to the American sailor, that it had expected to see "a cowboy in sailor togs, a boastful, noisy, swaggering, chip-on-shoulder fellow with a nasal twang, who would talk of whipping the universe." But instead he was found to be "modest, quiet in his manner, rather silent and shy, eager to know all about Australia but slow to say anything of his own country." He was "youthful compared with many of the British sailors, often slight in figure, smiling, frank, a good mixer, interested in what he observed ashore, with something of the tourist's curiosity, very sociable, but not familiar, and never blatant." So it could not have been our "jackies" who were in any way responsible for the one unpleasantness, that at Christ Church, New Zealand, where a rumpus was started by rowdy fellows demanding to know "who won the war." Unquestionably this visit of our fleet brought about a better understanding and strengthened international friendship.

That Body of Yours

STOMACH GAS.

I talk frequently about gas on the stomach because everybody has a little attack of it at times. Although it is somewhat distressing it is not usually dangerous, and the old-fashioned baking soda generally brings relief.

I have spoken about this gas forming into a ball as large as a toy balloon, and so pressing on the roof of the stomach that it in turn was pressed against the floor of the chest (the diaphragm,) and this in turn pressed against the heart which actually interfered to some extent with its action. A great many cases of so called "heart attacks," have been cured with a little baking soda, or better still by bending the body from side to side thus dislodging the gas and having it escape up through the mouth or downwards into the intestine.

However, our physiologists and pathologists in investigating the action of the stomach and liver, particularly the gall bladder and flow of bile, have found out something that may be of help to us all.

They have discovered that the opening from the gall bladder through which the bile passes on its way to the intestine, doesn't remain open all the time. As the food comes from the stomach into the intestine, this opening allows bile to pour out on the food so as to prepare it for absorption into the blood.

However these investigators discovered that if the stomach were distended by too much food or by gas, that even although food went from the stomach to intestine, this door of the gall bladded refused to open, and so all that material didn't get its supply of bile.

You can thus see that food without one of its important digestants—the bile—is not going to be absorbed completely into the blood, because its fats are not broken up thoroughly.

This will mean putrefaction and intestinal pain or distress.

The idea then is not to overload the stomach, and if subject to gas formation try and get rid of the gas by bending and twisting the body.

You don't want any deficiency in your flow of bile, if you can help it.

FAMOUS BOTANIST JOINS YONKERS INSTITUTE STAFF

Dr. John M. Coulter, head of the botany department of Chicago University since 1896, joins the resident staff of the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research at Yonkers, tomorrow. Dr. Coulter, known as the dean of American botanists, as a boy of 21 was a member of the Hayden Rocky Mountain expedition, sent by the United States Geological Survey to report authentically on the rumored marvels of what is now Yellowstone Park. Though a geologist primarily, he brought back such rare collection of mountain flowers that he was dubbed the botanist of the expedition, and taking them to the famous Asa Gray of Harvard, he laid the foundations of his renown as a botanist and formed the nucleus of his later work on the Rocky Mountain flora. On this expedition he was the guardian and observer of Old Faithful, which proved to be the most interesting of the group of geysers studied by the expedition.

Dr. Coulter was the founder of the Botanical Gazette and is today still the editor of this best known of American botanical journals. He has been president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, of the Botanical Society of America and of the Chicago Academy of Science. He is also a member of the National Academy of Science, the Botanical Society of Edinborough, the British Association for the Advancement of Science and in 1922 of the National Research Council. He is a staunch evolutionist and a prominent, active member of the Presbyterian church. Several of the dozen botanical books that he has written deal with plant breeding and evolution.

Colonel Thompson consulted Dr. Coulter in all of the initial steps of planning the scope, details and personnel of the Institute which bears somewhat the same relation to plant life that the Rockefeller Institute does to the animal kingdom. While the main practical objective is to aid in increasing agricultural production to keep pace with growth in population, the most direct means to this end is found to be in the establishment of the fundamental laws of plant life and the extending of scientific knowledge concerning them Dr. Coulter's coming to the institute further endows this important work with the seasoned experience, mellow judgment and scholarship of the leading botanist of our day.

ALSTEAD RISKS ITS ALL.

Behind the front in the War of the Revolution 150 years ago, in the frontier homes, other things were much more menacing to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness than taxes on tea, for instance. There were red men and wild beasts of the forests There was extreme poverty.

If they could not send soldiers could they not at least send delegates to the provincial congresses, thereby to express their adherence to the cause? There were organized towns which could not even do that. But they could send letters, such as the following from the little settlement of Alstead, chartered in 1763, and with a population of 317 in 1775:

To the Honbl the Deligates from the several Towns in this Province Now setting at Exeter New Hampshire.

We receiv'd a Letter from the former Convention Requesting us to assist by sending a man to Represent us We should gladly have improv'd the privilege were we in a Capacity but our inability is such that we look upon ourselves not able to maintain a man to sit in Congress. But have proceded so far in Town meeting Duly warn'd as to chuse a Committee to Corrispond with our sister Towns and to Draw a Letter to forward our Doings, Joining with the Town of Marlow in this Procedure which are as followeth (viz.)

MARIA CATHERINE HORTENSE DE VILLEDIEU.

Was the daughter of the Provost of Alencon, France, where she was born in 1632. Her second husband was M. De Cahatte, and her third, M. des Jardins. The lady wrote various works, both in prose and verse. her fugitive poems are most highly esteemed She also wrote a number of romances. Her death took place in 1683.

TEA IN ENGLAND.

The first mention of tea in England is contained in an advertisement printed in the Mercurius Politicus 267 years ago today, September 30, 1658, which reads "that excellent and by all physician, China drink, called by the Chineans Toha, by other nations, Tay, alias Tee, is sold at the Sultaness Coffee-House, in Sweeting's Rents, by the Royal Exchange, London." Since then tea—'by other nations called Tay' has become the national beverage of the English and Irish—not to mention the immense amount consumed in the good old U. S. A., where since the dawn of Volstead-ism, it is being drunk in vastly increased quantities.

FIRST GLOBE VOYAGE.

The first voyage of an American vessel around the world was made—appropriately—by the ship "Columbia" which sailed from Boston September 30, 1787, just 138 years ago today. The route was by way of Cape Horn to the northwest coast of America, where the ship took on a cargo of furs and sailed for China. From that country it sailed around the Cape of Good Hope, returning to Boston in 1790. The Columbia was in command of Capt. Robert Gray, who was the first white man to ascend the Columbia river, although the mouth of the stream had previously been discovered by a Spanish expedition. The first Free Trade Convention in America met in Philadelphia 94 years ago today. Free trade principles were first advocated by Adam Smith, the English economist, in 1776, and triumphed in England when the corn laws were abolished in 1846.

Good Looks as Well as Good Service

The improved Ford Runabout, with its all-steel stream-line body, is an unusually good-looking car.

It hangs low to the ground, and the body has been lengthened and re-designed for greater comfort and convenience. The gas tank under the cowl is filled from the outside, and the weatherproof storm curtains open with both doors.

Under the sweeping rear deck is an unusually large compartment designed for convenience in carrying luggage.

Standard equipment includes four cord tires, nickeled head-lamp rims and windshield wiper.

The price remains the same $260, and you can buy on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

NEW PALTZ.

New Paltz, Sept. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. John Klyne and children of Gardiner were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Quick.

A 69½ pound squash from the farm of Iver Petersen has been displayed at A. A. Poucher's store.

Many changes and improvements are being made in the Finley's new house on Huguenot street, formerly owned by Alonzo Simpson.

The G. L. F. feed store and the dwellings of William Ladew and Lee McIntosh have been wired for electric lights at Gardiner. Parker Brothers of New Paltz did the work.

An antique shop is being conducted on Huguenot street in the old ancestral home of Abraham Hasbrouck, in which Ivor Evers, the artist, has lived for the past few years.

Mrs. Arthur DeGroff of Hyde Park, visited her sister, Mrs. Frank Gulnac on Saturday.

Miss Elizabeth LeFevre has returned from a few days' vacation at the Wildmere, Lake Minnewaska.

At the regular meeting of the Huguenot Grange September 15, which was "Flora's Night," the program was in charge of Flora, Mrs Emory Jacobs, and consisted of a reading by Miss Grace Gifford; vocal solo, Miss Alice Kortright; reading, Mrs. Irving Kortright; vocal solo, Doris Lape. An encore was given to each number. Refreshments were served, with Mr. and Mrs. Andries LeFevre as host and hostess.

Mrs. Dewitt Seward has returned from Minnewaska, where she spent a ten days' vacation and while there acted as piano accompanist on Friday evening at the recital by Ruth Kemper, the violinist, who will also give a recital in Steinway Hall, New York, on November 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ten Hagen were recent visitors in Wallkill.

Mrs. Marie Bartels of New Paltz, has sold her farm at Butterville, consisting of 52 acres of what is known as part of the New Paltz Water Works Farm, to Mrs. Annie Paul of Ridgefield Park, New Jersey.

The next meeting of Huguenot Grange on October 3 will be of particular interest to all members as it will be the first occasion that State Overseer Fred L. Freestone will have visited a Grange in this county. In addition to being the second highest Grange official in the state, Mr. Freestone is president of the State Horticultural Association.

Walter Sutherland spent Sunday with Samuel Sneden at Modena.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Hasbrouck, Jr., recently attended the wedding of his cousin, Miss Hasbrouck of Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Cortant and daughter Estelle and Mrs. Emily Krom were in Kingston Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Oates have been at Minnewaska. On Tuesday evening Mr. Oates gave a song recital there with Mrs. Dewitt Seward at the piano.

No Blare of Trumpets

With the opera flourishing, and the names of prima donna figuring in all the papers, it is interesting to recall the modest announcement which heralded the first appearance of such a lady on the British stage. It appeared in 1662, and ran as follows: "The Italian lady, just come over sea, who is so famous for her singing, will perform." No more than that, not a word about her palaces, her jewels, her pets, or her differences with other gifted ladies. No mention even of her name.

Oysters —

The season is here for those delicious bivalves. We serve them in Fries and Stews that surely will satisfy. At a term of the Ulster County Court, held at the Court House in the City of Kingston, in said County, on the 22nd day of September, 1925.

Present—Hon. Joseph M. Fowler, County Judge

COUNTY COURT—ULSTER COUNTY.

In the matter of the petition of ABRAM WAGER, for the discharge of a certain mortgage

On reading and filing the petition of Abram D. Wager, duly verified September 19, 1925, and the Certificate of the Clerk of the County of Ulster, by which it appears that a certain mortgage of record in the office of the Clerk of Ulster County, purporting to have been made by Gerome Paddock to Theron F. Gardiner, dated [illegible] 2, 1838, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office July 3, 1899, in Book of Mortgages No. 103, at page 26, to secure the payment of the sum of $1,000 00, and thereafter assigned by said Theron F Gardiner to Henry D. B. Bailey by assignment dated September 1, 1868, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office October 25, 1869, in Book of Mortgages No 194, at page [illegible] and thereafter assigned by said Henry B. Bailey to "John M. Townsend as executor of the Last Will and Testament of Mary Cole deceased, late of Poughkeepsie, N. Y." by assignment dated April 10, [illegible] and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office September 15, 1903, in Book of Mortgages No. 218, at page 551, and which said mortgage appears to be undischarged of record and a lien upon the premises of the petitioner, situate in the town of Plattekill in said County of Ulster; that said mortgage is paid, that the assignee of the mortgagee, the Executor of the estate of the said Mary Cole deceased for twenty-two years and that the estate of said Mary Cole deceased was Judicially settled February 1899, and that said mortgage has not been assigned or transferred since the Judicial Settlement of the estate of said Mary Cole deceased.

Now on motion of D. W Ostrander, Attorney for the petitioner it is ORDERED that all persons interested in said mortgage be, and they hereby are required to show cause at a term of this Court appointed to be held at the Court House in the City of Kingston, in the County of Ulster, N. Y. on the 5th day of October, 1925, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why such mortgage should not be discharged of record. And it is further Ordered, that this order shall be published in The Kingston Freeman, a newspaper published in the City of Kingston, once a week until said return date, and it is further ordered that notice by mail, addressed to the following persons at the following addresses, on or before the 25th day of September, 1925, shall be good and sufficient notice.

STATE OF NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER.—JOSEPH FISHER, against WILLIAM [illegible] TEN and FREDA BATTEN.

In pursuance of a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale made and entered in the above entitled action bearing date the 29th day of September, 1925, and on that day duly entered in Ulster County Clerk's Office, I, the undersigned Referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Court House in the City of Kingston, on the 14th day of November, 1925, at 12 o'clock M. of that day the premises directed by said Judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Rosendale, County of Ulster and State of New York on the Northerly side of the Delaware and Hudson Canal, being the same lot as was conveyed by James Snyder and Jane, his wife, by deed bearing date the first day of November, 1850, to Hiram Krom and recorded in Book of Deeds No. 80 on pages 43 and 44, September 9, 1851 bounded as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING on the northerly side of said canal at the bounds of said Cathe Snyder; from thence running as the [illegible] then point North thirty degrees (30) forty-five minutes (45') east two chains ninety-six links to a fence; then along same North eighty degrees west three chains thirty links; then south seven degrees three chains eleven links to said canal then along the same easterly two chains twenty-one links to the place of beginning. Containing eighty-three-hundredths of an acre, excepting the privilege to lead water from the spring over said lot a southerly direction to the nearest convenient place on the adjoining lot of Andrew Snyder and wife, to them, their heirs and assigns, the said water is to be taken from said spring by a lead pipe the bottom of the spring to be fifteen inches below the pipe and the pipe is to be run so deep as not to interfere with the cultivation of the land.

SAVING, excepting and reserving from and out of the premises above described

All that certain piece and parcel of land bounded and described as follows: Beginning on the northerly side of the highway eighteen feet westerly from the most southeasterly corner of the Hiram Van Tassel place so called wherever the same may be found to be and running along the bounds of said highway easterly to said corner thence up northerly along the line of land owned by the Lawrenceville Cement Company forty feet; thence in a direct line westerly to the place of beginning. Containing one square rod of land, be the same more or less.

Being the same premises conveyed by Albert W. Van Tassel (unmarried) to Francis Huben by deed dated July 18, 1867 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book No. 208 of Deeds at page 301.

The above described property is hereby conveyed subject to all easements, restrictions and exceptions contained in this deed and in the deed of William T. Van Tassel and Lucretia D. Van Tassel, his wife, to Francis Huben, dated July 26, 1867 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book No. 241 of Deeds at page 398. Also in the deed made by Francis Huben to William Batten and Frieda Batten, his wife, of property adjacent to the above described premises.

Being the same premises conveyed by deed of Frieda Batten to George S. Wright, dated October 27, 1919, and duly recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 28, 1919, in Book of Deeds No. 97 at page 355

Pirates Lose Pitching Edge Back of Plate

uel and Severeid In Their All Around Work Surpass Efforts of Smith and Gooch—Ruel in Ranks of Near Great.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 30.—If, as alleged, Pirate pitching is slightly more adaptable to circumstances than the somewhat left-handed character of the Senatorial staff will permit, this paper profit must be wiped out immediately by the fact that the Washington catchers are well in the lead by any standard of comparison. Muddy Ruel and Hank Severeid figure to get much more out of their pitchers than do Earl Smith and Gooch, of Pittsburgh.

Ruel probably will catch most of the games for the Senators, which means that they will get bang up pitching every time out. The writer cannot guarantee the same thing for Pittsburgh. Smith, its first stringer, is a dangerous hitter and puts plenty of life and fight into his work but he has very little of Ruel's steadying influence, to say nothing of his strategy.

Ruel a Near Great.

Smith is not one of the deep thinkers of baseball; too much temperament. Too much conversation and not enough intelligent thinking. He is just a good catcher; Ruel comes very close to being a great one. And, like most catchers of this type, he is not flamboyant. He is almost unobtrusive about it.

Several years ago it would have been silly to mention Severeid and Gooch in the same paragraph. But in the meantime Hank has slipped a bit in a defensive way, although he is just finishing a big year in hitting. Severeid, in brief, is going, while Gooch is on his way up, and, traveling in opposite directions, it is possible they will meet on a common level.

However, it is not likely that Severeid will take more than a minor part in the series unless Ruel is injured. So much for defense.

In hitting, the break must be accorded Washington again. Smith is something of a slugger and might break up a ball game at any time but Ruel is outhitting him slightly in the league for league averages—not an unfair comparison this year—and is the more dangerous man in a pinch.

Severeid Hit .370.

Gooch is a hitter of this type, also, but all three of them are outclassed by Severeid, who has hit well up around .370 all season. Further, he is not the kind of hitter who figures to be bothered over much by the type of pitching Pittsburgh will turn loose. I think the same thing can be said for Ruel.

All in all, rival catching leaves Washington with plenty of paper profit. The Pirates' catching is good, but the Senators happen to have one of the best staffs in baseball.

Dempsey Signs To Fight Wills

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 30.—Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills have signed articles for a championship battle to be staged in September or October, 1926, but today after the excitement of the signing was over neither of the principals nor the promoter would hazard even a guess as to the spot where the combat would be staged.

It is understood, of course, that there is a possibility that the fight will take place in Indiana, within easy reach of Chicago, and a report was current that efforts would be made to hold the event in Chicago contingent upon the final success of the Illinois boxing referendum in Chicago. Certain provisions in the new law place some obstacles in the way of this plan, but it is believed these might be surmounted.

The actual signing of the articles took place in the little town of Niles, ten miles from this place, in Michigan. The signatures were affixed to the article in Michigan to avoid complications under Indiana law.

The men will fight under a percentage agreement, it was announced. Twenty-five thousand dollars has been advanced by the principals for expenses, and $350,000 in forfeits posted.

Great Outfields On Both Clubs

Coming World Series Should Be Interesting From Outfielders Standpoint—Pirates Have a Slight Edge Over Senators.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 30.—When it comes to a question of outfields, the pending world series promises something out of the ordinary. You have a right to expect outfielders on teams that are good enough to win pennants. But it isn't often that you find outfielders of the calibre of the men who will cavort in the outer gardens for Pittsburgh and Washington—even in a world series.

Whatever edge may be goes to Pittsburgh. But the edge is not so great as might seem on first glance.

The Pirates, with Carey, Cuyler and Barnhart have great speed and hitting power. Not since the old days of Hooper, Lewis and Speaker has a trio of outer defense men distinguished themselves as has this one.

Not only have they offered defensive perfection but their hitting and base running has been an important factor. Cuyler, beyond question, has been the most valuable individual to his team this season. Carey is only a step behind him. Barnhart, true, is not quite as strong as his running mates—either in defense or driving power—but he is not to be sneezed at.

Washington is only one step behind in outfield strength. Sam Rice, old in service and wise in the ways of baseball, represent the real brains of the Senator triumvirate. He is a smart ballplayer, a player who knows instinctively what to do and when to do it. On addition, he is blessed with a wonderful arm. He is the real power of the Washington outfield, worthy to take his place alongside of either Carey or Cuyler or any other of the great outfielders of his time.

Goslin represents power. And his hits, fortunately, are timely. He is not a smart ballplayer. On the bases, as compared with Cuyler and Carey, he is a mere tyro. In the last Washington-Yankee series he reached first base four times and three times was caught napping. His fielding, from the purely mechanical angle, is quite adequate.

The other Washington outfield position rests between Earl Mcneely and Joe Harris. Harris can hit, but his fielding is ordinary. McNeely is a wonder afoot, but a weak hitter. Indications are that Bucky Harris will give Joe the call.

Truly, it should be a wonderful series from the outfielding standpoint.

Scramble For Series Tickets.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 30.—World series tickets went on sale in Washington today and resulted in an almost unprecedented scramble. The Washington club has more than 150,000 applications for the approximately 36,000 seats available.

Old Master

It's painting the lily or gilding gold to tell of the deeds of the mighty "Barney" Johnson, king of pitchers, who is expected to blaze 'em over the plate for the Senators against the Pirates with the arm that never grows weary.

Some Slugger

When Goose Goslin started with the Senators, it was an even bet that a fly ball to him would land on his head. Now he ranks with the best as a fielder. He was always ace high at the bat.

Able Substitute

Bob Veach, old Tiger star, will be seen in some of the games for the Washington bunch. Bob has been around a long time, but he is still there with the timely wallop and has lost little of his speed in the outfield.

K. H. S. Eleven Loses Player

After their overwhelming defeat last Saturday at the hands of the Alumni team the Maroon and White grid squad are taking their daily workouts all the more in earnest and are putting more fight and pep than ever in heir work.

Coach O'Leary is not the least concerned over Saturday's defeat but is showing a very optimistic mood towards the season's battles.

Because of the nature of last week's contest with a much superior team the K. H. S. chieftain was unable to learn much of the qualities of the outfit outside of the fact that they exhibited aggressiveness in abundance.

But right at the start of the season before the opening scholastic match the mentor is forced to face a serious handicap. Schultz, one of the line's fastest and bulkiest mainstays and a last year's player was injured in the Alumni contest and will probably be kept out of the first few matches. Schultz was injured last season in the Peekskill match and because of this his shoulder was easily injured again this season. Schultz is one of the greatest losses the team could suffer. He is the team's only efficient drop-kicker.

With the Stuyvesant High match scheduled for this Saturday the grid squad were working hard in the rear of the school Monday afternoon and Coach O'Leary was trying out Wonderly in the vacant line berth. The local mentor spent the afternoon drilling the eleven in trick plays.

Selling Season Tickets.

In order to secure support for the Kingston High School football team this season and to gain financial assistance for the Athletic Association members of this large body are canvassing the city this week in efforts to sell season football tickets.

At the present time the A. A. is experiencing a considerable deficit and after receiving all possible aid from the student body and is appealing to the business men of the city or anyone interested in football and high school athletics.

This Athletic Association wholly finances all the athletics of the school and as all new football equipment has been purchased this season the treasury has been drained and the association is now in debt.

These tickets entitle the holder to admittance to all games this season.

Columbus Day Big Day at "Y"

Boys' Division of Local Association Planning for Big Opening on That Day—Boys' Work Secretary Hall Busy With Pen and Brush.

The boys' division of the Y. M. C. A. will have its formal opening of the winter season on Columbus Day, October 12, and in preparation for it, Boys' Work Secretary Chester R. Hall has been busy with his pen and brush getting out a boys' division news letter which is "published whenever and where we please," and is artistically decorated and written. In the afternoon there will be a basketball tourney between Student A and Student B classes and there will be prizes and everything that goes with them. In the evening a supper will be served and there will be an entertainer from New York city for the boys.

These news letters are being mailed to all of the boys and included with them is a schedule of the gym classes in the boys' work division. The gym opens Tuesday, October 6, for the winter season.

The first session of Pioneers No. 1 will be held that evening at 7:30 o'clock; the first session of the Hi Y on Wednesday evening at 6:15 o'clock; the first Friday nighter, October 9 at 8 o'clock; the first Scout meeting on Thursday, October 8.

Mr. Hall by his work in getting out the gym schedule and his news letter shows that he is not only artistic but literary, and that probably if he did not like "Y" work so well he could make a living writing and illustrating for the magazines.

JARDINE TO DECIDE NARCISSUS RESTRICTIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 30.—(Special.)—William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, will within a few weeks issue his final conclusions on the restrictions on the entry of narcissus bulbs into the United States, it was announced by him today. These restrictions, adopted nearly three years ago to go into effect January 1, 1926, have been the subject of wide discussion, both favorable and adverse.

When Secretary Jardine took office in March, these restrictions came to his attention, together with arguments that conditions might have changed since the plan was originally decided upon. He thereupon determined on a detailed review of the situation, including not only a much more thorough examination of bulb imports than had previously been possible but also a survey of the extent to which pests carried by the bulbs might already have a foothold in the United States. The information being assembled by experts from imports still coming in and from field surveys, will be available to a sufficient extent to permit within a few weeks a decision based exclusively on actual facts as they exist today.

The S-51, rammed and sunk by a liner off Block Island, was the last word in submarines. Here is shown the crew lined up on the deck before the disastrous trip. Below are divers about to descend to the bottom, where the submarine lies, to place [illegible] to raise the craft in the same manner as was the S-48 in 1921.

LAY CORNER STONE OF NEW WEST POINT HOTEL

The beginning of actual construction of West Point's new hotel was signalized Monday when Major-General Fred W. Slayden, superintendent of the United States Military Academy, laid the cornerstone of the new edifice. Officials of the Federal government and of various states, congressmen, United States Army officers, guests, business and professional men were present. Chaplain Wheat of the Academy opened the ceremony with a prayer. John F. Sanderson, president of The Thayer West Point Hotel Corp., as master of ceremonies, in an address outlined some of the very unique features of the new hotel and briefly scanned the romantic history of the 100-year old landmark which will be abandoned in favor of the new and up-to-date hostelry.

Col. William N. Dykeman, vice-president of the Graduate Association of the United States Military Academy, and Burr McIntosh were also speakers. Then the actual laying of the cornerstone took place, Major-General Slayden using the silver trowel presented to him for the occasion by Mr. Sanderson. This was followed by several patriotic airs played by the West Point Cadet Band. Simplicity marked the entire ceremony, which concluded with a buffet luncheon.

SAUGERTIES MAY HAVE AN ADDITIONAL WATER LINE

The board of water commissioners of Saugerties are planning to submit a proposition to the village taxpayers to raise money for laying an additional water main from the reservoir at Blue Mountain to the village as the present line is inadequate to meet the demand for more water.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING

"Come on, hurry along," said Old King Thunder to Old Queen Thunder. "Let's have a surprise party to the Earth people."

"Let's do that," said Old Queen Thunder.

"Now, as you know without a doubt, when Old King Thunder speaks to Old Queen Thunder they yell at each other and roar at each other at the very "tip-tops" of their voices.

This is the way they enjoy talking.

Just the way we will talk in fairly low voices, or shout only when we are excited, they shout if ever they speak.

Sometimes their voices are louder than at other times, but they never speak in low tones.

They love their noisy, loud conversation, and they have brought up all their children to talk in the same way.

Can you imagine belonging to a family that never once said:

You would never hear that if you belonged to the Thunder family.

In fact, many a time has King Thunder shouted to one of the Thunder Cloud children and said:

"What a weak little rumble. Roar louder. Give a real rumble. Let's hear how you can do it."

And then you will notice that the little distant rumbles and the little roars become stronger and louder, and then great, great rolling ones are louder than all

The huge ones are King and Queen Thunder talking. The ones that get louder and louder but never the loudest of all, but yet are very loud rumbles after having been little ones—they are the children.

"It's cold weather now," said Old King Thunder, "around here, and they don't expect one of our storms at this time of the year, so we'll just give them a good surprise."

...ey Yell at Each Other.

"You have the grandest ideas," said Old Queen Thunder.

Old King Thunder and Old Queen Thunder rest when they are not having parties and noisy talks. That gives them so much more strength and energy when the time comes for a good, stormy time.

They went where it was warm most of the time, but now and again they like to surprise people, and they come suddenly around when it just seems too silly to have a thunder and lightning storm.

They called their Lightning friends and asked them to join their fun.

And as you know the Lightning family and the Thunder family have been friends for years and years.

No two families are greater friends than these two.

Well, the Thunder family and the Lightning family went rumbling and crashing and yelling and roaring and flashing and forking about their sky playground, and the Thunder children played hide and seek around the mountains and the hills.

And then along came the Raindrop children and Old King of the Clouds and then there was excitement.

Not only were they having their party when it was cold but they had it in the middle of the night.

People got up out of nice, warm beds and pulled down windows in bedrooms and the noise was so great hardly any slept through it.

It quieted down soon again, but not until it had given almost everyone enough noise to wake them up.

The Thunder family and the Lightning family had other plans and engagements and could not stay around long, but they had a splendid little surprise party and said they loved parties which were arranged on the spur of the moment.

"That's the way with my dear old King," roared Old Queen Thunder. And the Old King added:

"That's the appreciative kind of Old Queen I have."

"Our dear parents," said the children.

And the thunder gradually died away, and the lightning disappeared, and only the rain remained around for awhile!"

Conundrums

When would it seem that a lawyer is out of temper? When he asks cross-questions.

What is it that you cannot see though it is always before you? Your future.

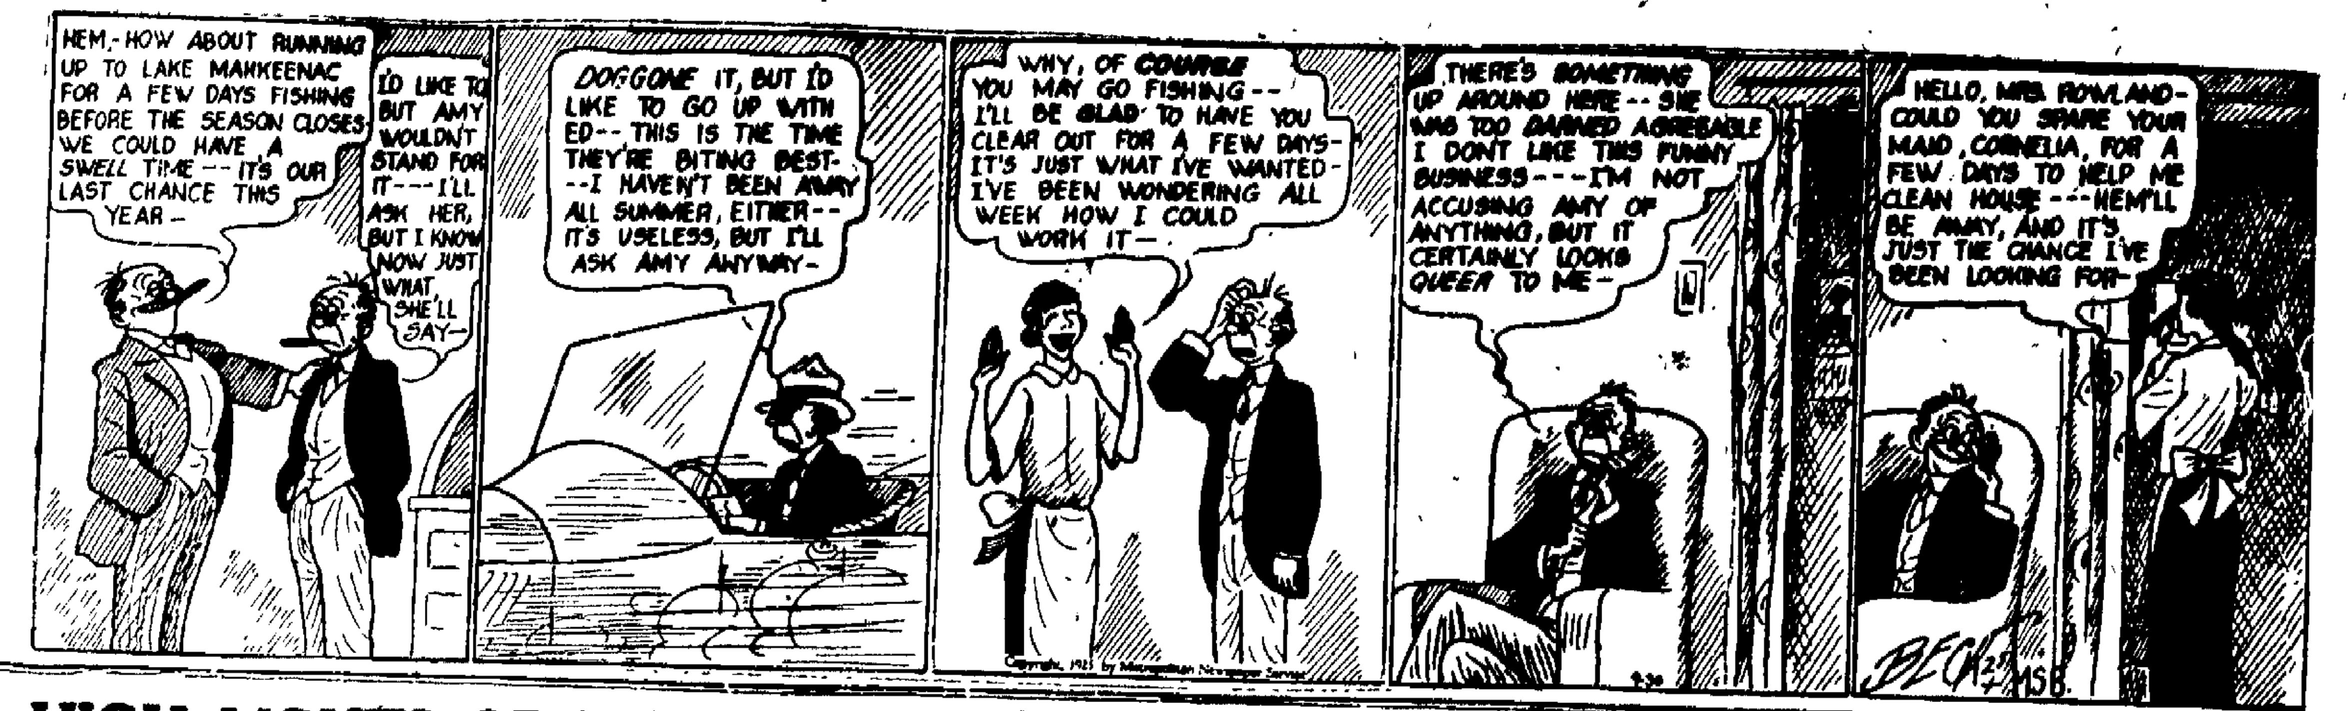

How do extravagant dreams differ from law books? The first are costly modes, the second mostly codes.

Why is a cellar door like sin? Both lead to abasement.

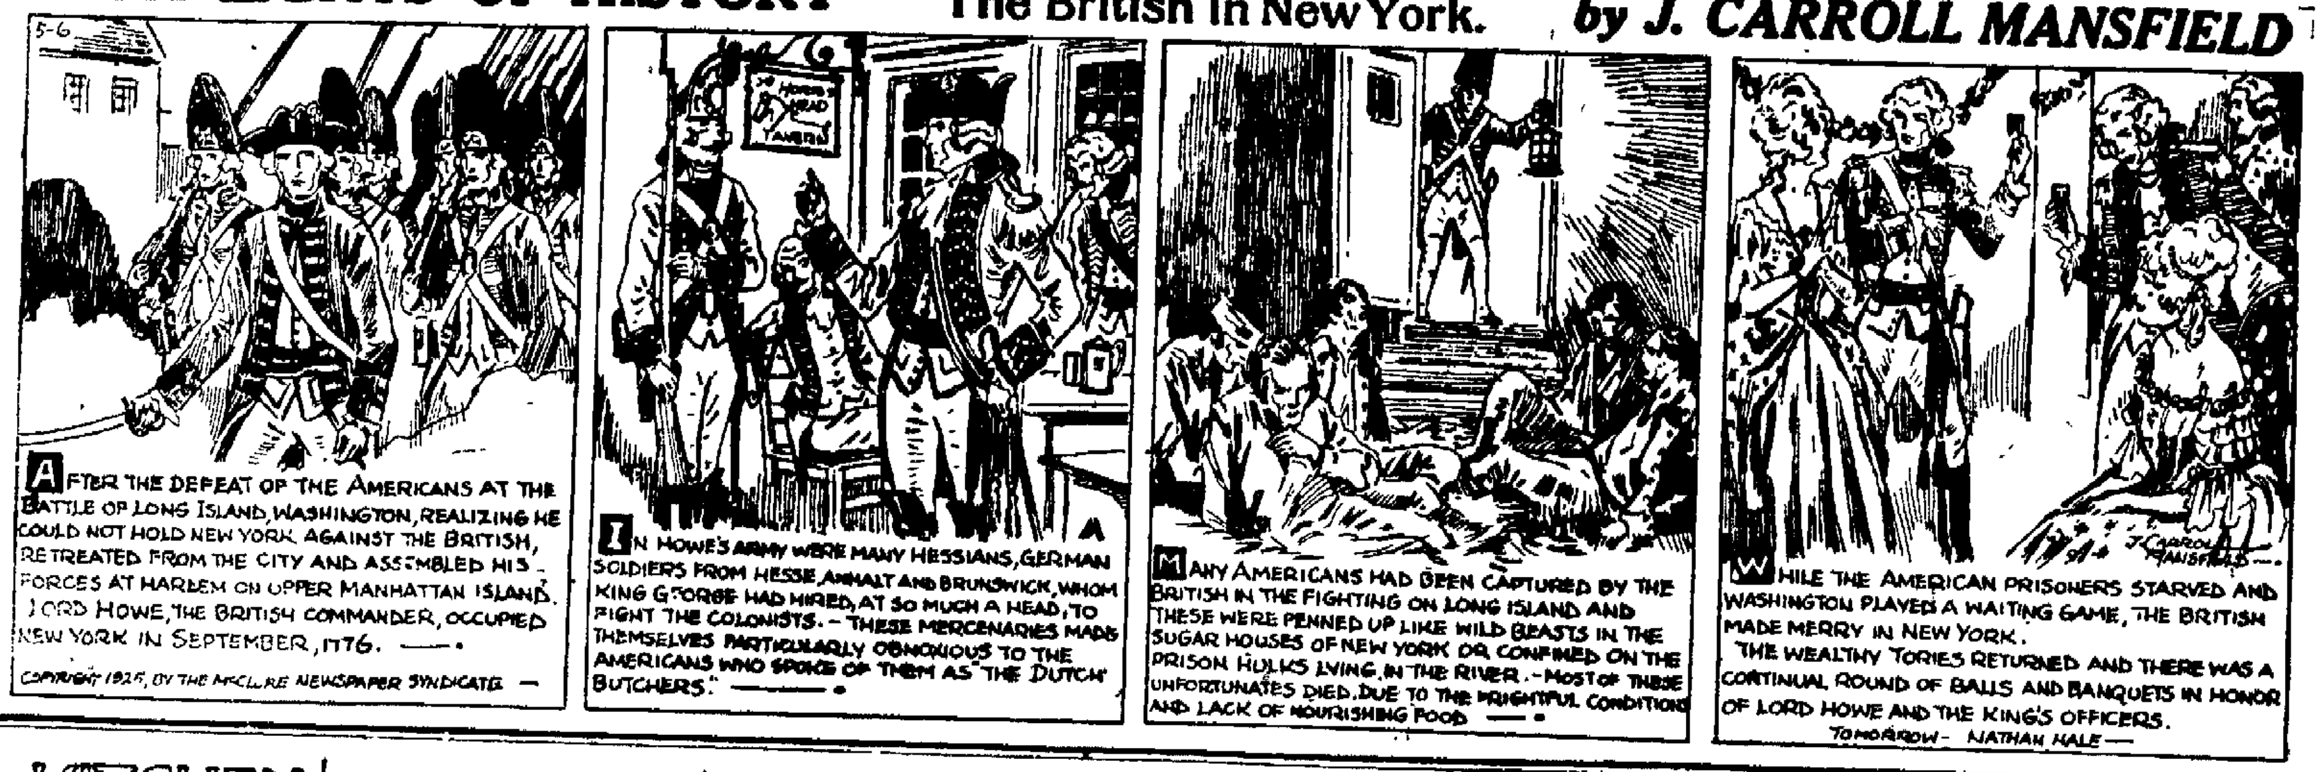

What is that which we often return but never borrow? Thanks.

GAS BUGGIES—It's the Uncertainty of Life That Makes It Interesting

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY The British in New York. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

The KITCHEN CABINET

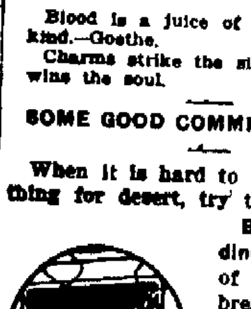

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Blood is a juice of a very special kind.—Goethe.

Charms strike the sight, but merit wins the soul.

SOME GOOD COMMMON DISHES

When it is hard to think of something for desert, try this one:

Blueberry Pudding.—Lay slices of (not too dry) bread after buttering well, into a deep dish. Pour over enough blueberries very hot, juice and all, to cover well. Set away to chill or bake in a quick oven and serve with cream and sugar.

Fried Apples and Onions.—Slice tart apples and half as many onions. Put the onions on to cook in a spoonful or two of fat; when nearly tender add the apples and a little water. Cook until all are well browned. Salt and sugar are added for seasoning.

Fruit Cocktail.—Scoop apples that have been peeled with a potato cutter into balls, cook in a sugar sirup until tender, cool and serve with melon balls, pineapple, pears, peaches and cherries. Any combination one's taste suggests will be good. Add lemon rind and juice to the sirup and pour over enough to flavor and sweeten each cocktail.

With the fields full of the delicious field mushroom in many places one has at hand a great delicacy. Stew them in butter, add cream and serve on toast.

When putting up sweet cucumber pickles this fall peel, cut into half-inch rings, then with a small cutter cut out the center with the seeds. They are much more attractive to serve and are not much work to prepare.

Vanilla Ice Cream With Pears.—On a slice of brick ice cream lay half of a preserved pear. Pour over it a sauce which has been colored pink with cinnamon candies. Decorate the pear with browned almonds, serve at once.

Hot Beef Sandwich.—Heat the gravy from the roast and in this lay a slice or two of thinly sliced roast; when heated lay on a slice of buttered bread and cover with another slice. Pour the hot gravy over all and serve.

Fillets of Fish.—Wipe fillets and brush with butter, add salt and pepper and lay in a baking dish. Surround with boiled potatoes, cover with a white sauce and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

ADDING NATURAL BEAUTIES OF LAKE GEORGE CAMPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 30.—After an absence of eight years, Julius W. Muller, the writer, who is an enthusiastic admirer of the natural beauties of Lake George, returned to the lake to camp this summer and was deeply impressed by the fact that in spite of the greatly increased use of the islands for camping purposes their natural attractiveness was in no wise impaired.

In a letter to Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald, he wrote:

"This summer, when I looked at these islands in the Narrows harboring a multitude of camps, I found it difficult to recall the time when a camp here and there represented all that camping meant. If at that time we had pictured such intensive use of the state lands as there is now, I am sure that we would have had dark forebodings as to the effect on the islands, and I am equally sure that we would have been convinced that the lovely aspects of naturalness and wilderness must vanish under so much occupation.

"Now it happens that this is my first summer here after an absence of eight years; and eight years ago, though camping had increased greatly, it was far from being what it is now. Thus I am unusually well able to judge, since my close knowledge of the islands when they were largely unused would make me sharply perceptive of any deterioration. But instead of that, I find the islands in such admirable condition that I feel I must write this letter to you—not as an empty matter of compliment, but because these Narrows are today a fine practical demonstration of what wise care can accomplish without onerous restrictions; and as such they may well serve to illustrate to the taxpayers of the state that the conservation policy is worth what it costs and gives more than full return for its expenditures. I arrived here on June 1 and at that time, before the mass of campers had arrived, I paddled around all the islands and landed on most of them. I found every camp site without exception, fit for immediate occupancy. In fact, the condition of each one was better than in the old days when there were few campers but no system of regular control through regulations under watchfulness of an official resident in the group of islands. In those days campers did leave litter when they departed. The waters immediately around the camp sites too often contained tin cans and other similar camp discard. Now after eight years of such increased occupancy as I could not have imagined, I found none of this. And furthermore, in all these months since June 1, during which I have been on Juanita Island and pretty well able to observe the general conditions, I have found that under this control, mild and not at all officious or punitive in character, the Conservation Commission's officers and agents have succeeded in maintaining excellent observance of the regulations.

"That they have been able to do this without resorting to 'police' methods is, I consider, a splendid testimony to the spirit which you have instilled in the forest service. Your rangers show a most decided and pleasing quality of tact, which I suppose is developed by the knowledge that the Commission is behind them when they use their best judgment in situations that no doubt must often be difficult, since inevitably there must be many unreasonable people, and some mischievous or lawless ones in such a great number of transients as now use the State's public lands.

"When we consider that a large part of the city population habitually leaves litter at the roadsides in the country, and that these people, quite without evil design, are terribly destructive of growing things, the success of the Commission in protecting the wilderness and yet opening it freely to use, is not only something of which the Conservation service can be proud, but also is a very authentic contribution to the art of government.

"I don't know what infraction of rules there may have been here, or if there have been many or few. The only one I know of personally is where a camper of the lawless kind chopped down a tree on one of the islands. Within less than fifteen minutes your ranger Jay C. Taylor and your Superintendent of Lands and Forests C. R. Pettis, were on the scene and had established the man's guilt by his own admission; and that evening he had paid for the damage and was breaking camp under orders to leave the forest preserve at once. But the great point, it seems to me, is that while punishment thus is quick and certain where it is necessary, the forest service prevents violations rather than merely punishing after an act, and this prevention is achieved largely by quiet, unobtrusive watchfulness and instruction instead of display of authority. Personally, to be sure, I wish the wilderness and the lakes were as they used to be, with only a few of us in them, and miles apart. But I know that those times have gone. So, since it seems that forests and waters are doomed to be as popular as Broadway, I want to congratulate you on your success (you and the whole body of Conservation Commission men) in saving the beauty of the wilderness despite the invading multitude."

STATE ENTOMOLOGIST AT CORN BORER CONFERENCE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 30.—(Special)—Dr. E. P. Felt, state entomologist, is attending a field meeting of high Federal, state and Canadian officials, called for the purpose of examing the badly infested corn borer territory parts of Ohio and Michigan and the counties of Kent and Essex, Province of Ontario, Canada. Injury by this pest has been particularly severe in the Canadian area. The field examinations will be followed on October 1st by a conference for the purpose of coordinating the various interested agencies in a program designed to minimize loss and retard further spread. By request, Dr. Felt will also represent the State Department of Farms and Markets at these meetings.

Bowling Alleys Open at "Y"

The newly renovated bowling alleys at the local Y. M. C. A. will be open to the public on Thursday evening of this week. No restrictions as to membership will be enforced on the opening night and all bowlers are invited to inspect and make use of the alleys.

A new lighting system of the latest improved type is being installed. This not only gives more lights both in number and in candle power but they are so placed and shaded that shadows will be eliminated and the glare extinguished.

The alley beds are in perfect condition being newly scraped planed and leveled by experts from a large bowling manufacturing company who claim they are one of the best sets of alleys in the country.

A new painting scheme in two tones makes the alleys much lighter and cleaner as well as very pleasing to the eye.

The physical department committee have engaged William Slawson to supervise and clean the alleys. Mr. Slawson, who was president of the Mercantile Bowling League for the past two seasons is competent for the position and his efforts will be directed towards giving service to all bowlers.

The association is offering an opening prize of a sterling silver medal for the highest score rolled up the opening night. No restrictions will be placed on the bowler as to membership or number of games bowled. The contest will begin at 7 o'clock on Thursday evening and will close with the finish of any games that can be started before 10:30 p. m. on the same night. The highest score wins.

Joe Carr Fined $5.

Joe Carr was arrested Tuesday evening by the police on a charge of public intoxication and making a nuisance of himself on Newkirk avenue. He spent the night in the county jail and this morning in police court was fined $5.

TEXAS MAN NEAR HORRIBLE DEATH FROM ALLIGATOR

Seized by Reptile While Wading in Pool at Picnic Party.

Houston, Texas.—Dunk Campbell, fifty-two, had an encounter with a 12-foot alligator and as the result Campbell is at St. Joseph's infirmary suffering from a badly mangled right leg and foot and a mangled left foot.

The encounter occurred in a pool near Big Cypress creek, about twenty-five miles north of Houston, Texas, on the Bammel road, Mr. Campbell being attacked by the 'gator when he waded barefooted into the pool to catch some minnows. He waded into the water shoulders deep when he felt something grab his right knee and leg.

He began to fight to release himself and pulled the alligator high enough to see what it was. He attempted to kick it loose with his left foot and the alligator snapped at that, biting it almost through.

Companions to Rescue.

His companions heard his screams and went to his rescue. His head was almost under water, but they seized his arms and succeeded in wrenching him free and taking him to shore.

Attempted to Kick It Loose.

where an ambulance was called and he was brought to a hospital.

An examination of Campbell's wounds at the hospital showed that his right knee, ankle and heel had been badly bitten and that his left foot was almost bitten through.

Mr. Campbell, with A. J. Cook, S. E. Ahlbeck and two small girls, one his daughter, had gone out to Big Cypress creek to fish. Campbell left the party to go over to the pool to catch some minnows for bait and within a few minutes after his departure other members of the party heard his screams. Hurrying over to the pool they saw Campbell disappear from sight and when he came to the surface the second time the two men in the party grabbed Campbell by one of his arms and pulled him out of the water.

Dynamite Kills Reptile.

Campbell said that he never did see the alligator but that he could tell it was a 'gator when his foot came in contact with him.

Later in the afternoon a party went out to the pool where Campbell was bitten to get the alligator. A charge of dynamite dislodged the 'gator, and he was brought out on the bank of the pool dead.

Put Their Locomotive Through Wall of Fire

Bellingham, Wash.—A crew of men were forced to drive a locomotive through a solid wall of fire and over four wooden bridges, one of which was ablaze, to save themselves from death when the Lyman Lumber company plant, 20 miles south of here, was destroyed by a forest fire.

After most of the men had been released the locomotive crew returned in an effort to save the burning bridge, but it had already collapsed.

Three girls employed in the cook house of the company stuck to their jobs, providing food for fire-fighters until all hope of saving the camp had been given up.

Youths in Fatal Fall Down Abandoned Mine

Pleasantville, Iowa.—Three youths were overcome and fell to their deaths in an abandoned coal mine near here.

Eden Koons, twelve, was overcome by gas while climbing down a ladder and fell. His older brother, Milburn, nineteen, summoned to the mine by companions of Eden, also was overcome and followed his brother in a fatal fall.

Donald Hodgson, seventeen, was overcome and fell, too, in a future attempt to rescue the other boys. The bodies were recovered by means of grappling hooks.

Pet Deer Attacks and Injures Girl

Chestertown, Md. — Miss Madge Crawford, twenty-four years old, was attacked and seriously injured by a deer while walking alone in a tourist camp, mid way between here and Tolchester beach.

Miss Crawford for some years has been a semi-invalid and slightly lame.

The tourist camp in which she was walking is a privately owned reservation. Recently a park stocked with deer and other game was leased by the owners of the camp.

Miss Crawford was strolling through the grove of trees when she came upon the deer. The animal was frightened for a moment. Then it lowered its antlers and charged at her. One of the prongs punctured the woman's heart.

LIFE STREAM BUYS BREAD FOR FAMILY

Man Close to Death After Repeated Cuppings.

Montreal.—After eight times selling his blood to buy bread for his starving family, a worker of this city has been referred to the Family Welfare association by the hospital, which found him too weak to give another transfusion.

For each pint of blood drawn from the veins of his arms he received $20. With each sale he would stagger home and turn the money over to his wife to stock the larder, then he would go to bed for a few hours before going out to work. It is computed by doctors that he sold about six quarts of blood. With the money thus secured he supported himself, wife, four young children, a widowed sister-in-law and her baby.

Fight Duel to Death in Street of Chicago

Chicago.—A pistol duel over a woman, who watched helplessly, resulted in the death of Edward Olson, the woman's ex-convict husband, and in probably fatal injuries to her friend, George Kane.

The shooting, which followed a drinking party at the Olson apartment, occurred in a parked automobile. The two men were in the front seat, with Mrs. Olson behind.

Edward Olson was a real estate dealer, and had objected frequently to his wife's relations with Kane.

George Kane, who lies near death in a hospital, was identified as John ("Red") Flannery, alleged robber, whom police have been seeking for months in connection with a murder.

End Loveless Lives in Crater's Depths

Tokyo.—When a young woman in Japan passes the marriageable age without having acquired a husband, it is tragedy.

Recently three Japanese women who believed they were on the verge of spinsterhood went to the Asama volcano and, bidding farewell to the world of unappreciative men, leaped to death in the flaming crater. They were Takeji Kobayashi, twenty-five; Shika Sema, twenty-four, and Kiyo Maruyama, twenty-three.

Police investigation disclosed that they had become despondent at the prospect of loveless lives.

Pay-as-You-Leave Cars Are Popular With Women

Oakland, Cal.—The Key System Transit company here has adopted a pay-as-you-leave plan on its local cars to avoid congestion in down-town streets. Passengers are requested to find seats or standing room quickly when they enter and to hand over their fares on leaving.

The method is proving popular with women passengers, especially those burdened with parcels and children.

The new system is being used only on outbound cars, passengers on inbound cars continuing to pay as they enter.

The English of It

This is probably why the English language is so hard for foreigners to learn:

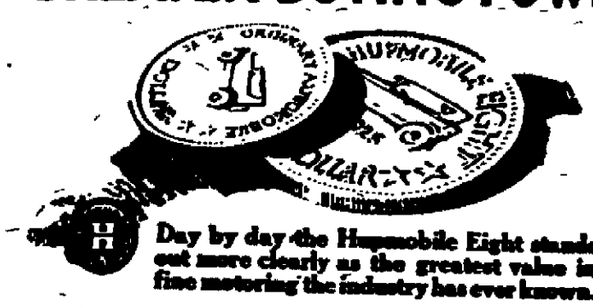

"I've lost the hides," said the soiled shirt.

"I've lost the hides," said the golfer, as he wandered aimlessly through the woods.

"I've lost the lynx," said the hunter, as he saw tracks around his trap.

ENDOWS the DOLLAR with GREATER BUYING POWER

Day by day the Hupmobile Eight stands out more clearly as the greatest value in fine motoring the industry has ever known.

Even at the original prices it rested too firmly on unapproachable quality to be disturbed. The new and lower prices emphasize still more the car's impregnable position.

Hupmobile Eight continues far in advance in every factor that creates quality and excess value.

Whether you move downward or upward in price, you can find Hupmobile values only in the Hupmobile Eight. Today it strikes more closely than ever before that fine balance between price and efficiency toward which the motor car industry has been moving for 20 years.

Make no decisions until you know this car, the first eight built for the American family. A car is always at your disposal.

Women's Lives

are relieved of a great hygienic handicap in this way

THERE is now a new way in woman's hygiene. A way scientific and exquisite that ends the uncertainty of old-time "sanitary pads."

You wear sheer frocks and gowns without a second thought, any time, anywhere. You meet every day, every business or social demand unhandicapped.

It is called "KOTEX." Eight in every 10 better-class women have adopted it.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, it banishes danger of mishaps.

Deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL fear of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You obtain it simply by saying "KOTEX." Women thus ask for it without hesitancy. Costs only a few cents at drug or department stores. Proves old ways a folly.

No laundry—discard like tissue

ALL RUN DOWN, NOW HEALTHY

"Honestly, in all MY 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac," is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.

"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my Mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.

"Tanlac came to her aid at once, brought on a vigorous appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although over 80 years of age she is now vigorous enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."

What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation. Made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

THAT FABRICS ARE MADE TO SERVE A DECORATIVE PURPOSE BY MANY CLEVER DEVICES

The many and interesting uses to which pleats are put this season is one of the arresting features of the season—one truly remarkable for the ingenuity with which fabrics are made decorative. There is the skirt pleated from neckline to hem, stitched and released to form a barrel silhouette. The pleats which are stitched down, especially the box pleat, flare out below the knee. There are pleats which are vertical, and those that take the opposite course; sleeves which start off straight enough from the shoulder, only to be pleated below or have their pleating released.

Pleats Running Full Length, Achieve a Barrel Silhouette by Being Stitched Flat at Girdle and Border Released Between.

Vionnet, who is associated with statue draperies and long graceful lines, has, this season, instituted some innovations, such as, for instance, having her skirts longer than other houses, and uneven—the great length being at the front.

Some of her models carry out this line in the waist as well—the line at the back being low, the front high. While there is a noticeable absence of period influences in the French showings as a whole, Vionnet suggests the Moyenage and Renaissance in some instances. She employs all manner of clever insert effects, and also some pleating, and follows the prevailing mode of futuristic motifs in such embroideries as appear on her dresses. Many of the inserts and appliques are triangular in effect. There are lozenge-shaped appliques also, and many geometrical designs are employed.

Have Little Sound Power

Air waves of human speech carry so little power that if 5,000,000 people all talked at once the sound power thus created would be just enough to light an ordinary incandescent lamp.

Cape and Frock Offered as New Ensemble Outfit

Drecoll sponsors a sport ensemble consisting of a cape and frock instead of the usual coat and frock ensemble. This chic overplaid cape is of kasha, with a wide border of red around it. The dress is of red silk, trimmed with white, and has a novel scarf effect.

Styles in Garments for Little Girls and Boys

Small garments depend upon needlework for individuality.

A frock of checked gingham for little sister is smocked with linen thread and has collar and cuffs of white linen edged with color.

For the simplest form of smocking make chalk or pencil dots one quarter-inch apart on the wrong side of the material. Pass a thread through each dot in each row and draw up the threads at one side. The material now resembles an accordion plaiting.

The best effects are obtained by using a straight line of stitches at top and bottom and between each row of checks. This gives firmness to the work as well as a border for the design and is very easy to do—simply use an outline stitch, passing the needle through the top of each plait.

Young brother's manly linen togs find distinction in zig-zag bands of outline stitch in yellow, copper and brown linen.

By the way, linen still continues to be the smartest fabric for both boys and girls, although a very smart little cotton crepe, for a girl of eight, has skirt and tunic blouse bordered with points done in a contrasting color of linen thread, with a twisted girdle to match.

Another charming frock of powder-blue crepe, with a tiny collar and vest of white, is shirred at the shoulders and wrists with golf-color linen thread, and fastens along one edge of the vest with amber buttons.

Yet another, of sage green crepe, has collar and cuffs of cream, and smocking of cream and black linen.

Feather stitching in fast color-black linen thread, on gay colors is as effective as it is easy to do. Around the hem line it is a charming finish for the bottom of brief frocks. French knots often make their appearance, frequently massed in a border effect of solid diamonds, and fagoting worked in the same color as the frock is very good.

Bolero Adds Interest in Fashions for Women

A development that adds considerably to the interest of the new models is the attempt on the part of several of the most exclusive designers to revive the bolero and in other ways to bring back the natural waistline. To be sure, in many instances it is only suggested in a most subtle manner, but the indication of a line is unmistakably evident.

And with the introduction of a waistline in its natural position, skirts have become fuller, but the greater amplitude is arranged in such a way that the effect is still slim and exceedingly graceful.

The bolero is a detail that has all the elements of novelty, for it is many seasons since it has appeared in the ranks of fashion. Among the models brought out the past spring were two or three suits that exploited a short waistline jacket obviously inspired by the bolero, and later models also reveal an inclination upon the part of the designers to give this new line favorable consideration.

Adore Summer Dress

Paris is still expending for adornment of its summer dresses on revers and jabots, according to dispatches from abroad. The revers are carried out in self material, in tartan printed voile, foulard or white linen edged with embroidery. The jabots are of great variety and originality. Even on tailored suits scarves are pinned to one side of the coat to give a jabot effect.

Shawls Show Artistic Embellishment and Fringing of Ribbon.

There seems to be no limit to the artistic ingenuity so well expressed in the latest ribbon creations. Novelty neckwear, party bags, and an inconceivable amount of decorations for frocks, all achieved with ribbons, wide, narrow, ombres, metals, and many novelty variations.

Shawls have not been neglected as a medium on which to exercise the possibilities of ribbon embellishment, and the shawls displayed with this decorative treatment prove effective in the extreme. Crepe de Chine is employed as the foundation for these shawls, which come in the long sizes fringed on three sides, or in the large squares with an all-around fringe. The fringe is made of narrow ribbon, usually a double-faced satin cleverly hand-knotted to the shawl in three or four rows. Sprays of brightly colored flowers and motifs made of narrow novelty ribbon adorn the corners and the borders.

Stole sets in the range of novelty neckwear exploit an interesting use of three-inch ribbons. These sets, consisting of a high collar and long panel and matching cuffs, are shown made up in moire finished with a novelty black satin stripe on either side, or with a ribbed crayon having three contrasting colored stripes down one side. A wide ombre faille creates a scarf tying at one side of the throat, allowing one long end to hang down. This end is decorated with a little Japanese scene entirely created with very narrow black taffeta, showing a sailboat and a large mountain on the horizon.

Party bags are very festive and gay. Three-tone velvet is used to fashion a square shaped bag slit down half way on either side, allowing an opening without pulling the drawstring at the top. One bag gives the effect of a Japanese lantern achieved with narrow Castilian red plisse having a metal glint.

A great variety of designs has been created for the skirt embellishments on evening frocks. Petal trimmings are very frequently given consideration in a variety of developments, the ribbons lending themselves very easily to this form of decoration. One of the most effective of these petal treatments is created with narrow ombre satin, doubled in order to give all of the lights in the ribbon. These small petal-shaped ribbons are attached to the hem of the frock in a series of rows finished at the top with a row of tiny rhinestones.

Do you know how much nicer cooking fat is when it is really fresh?

Snowdrift is fresh—fresh, as you use the word to describe a new laid egg. It is sweet—what you mean when you say "sweet" cream. Many a woman has told us that she has used shortening of one kind or another all her life and never realized, until she tried Snowdrift, that fat could be so sweet and fresh.

GROWING INTEREST IN RAILROAD SAFETY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Great and growing interest in the promotion of safety on railroads is indicated by the sessions of the steam railroad section of the National Safety Council, which opened in this city Tuesday.

It is now the practice for the railroads to send representatives of different classes of employes from various points on the system as one of the many means of stimulating interest in the movement. For example, the New York Central Lines will have no fewer than one hundred employes from various points and branches of the service.

The program for the four sessions of the steam railroad section is of unusual interest. The sessions will close with a round table discussion intended to bring out an exchange of practicable methods of promoting safety in various railroad operations.

Opening of Broadway Bazaar.

On Saturday, October 3, the Broadway Bazaar at 666 Broadway will be opened. M. Teteiman is the proprietor and he is offering specials for the opening day. The new store will carry a complete line of children's women's and gentlemen's apparel.

Card Party Postponed.

The card party which was arranged to be held Thursday evening in Mechanics' Hall, Henry street, under the auspices of Star of Kingston Lodge, No. 35, Shepherds of Bethlehem, has been postponed.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 30.—The reactionary trend was more pronounced in most sections of the market today and few of the active motor, industrial or railroad stocks duplicated yesterday's best prices. A six per cent call money rate, a topheavy condition in many of the speculative leaders and a conservative attitude toward the market as a whole by outside traders were sufficient to at least temporarily halt the feverish upward movement which has been in progress in the last two or three weeks, even if it produced no general decline in prices.

Most of the selling of motor and industrial stocks was well absorbed and liquidation in some quarters did little more than wipe out the gains made at the opening o the market this morning. Many stocks are needed for short covering, while bullish pools are standing squarely behind their favorites.

A spurt in the independent oil stocks failed to carry through But oils were also as inconspicuous in the later reaction in prices, and the market position of these stocks is comparative. Chrysler Motor, American Can and other high priced favorites sold from five to 15 points below yesterday's high levels, while active industrials and rails were about a point on the average.

Captain Baltz was given the flag for the largest amount reported today and Captain Charchian retained the flag for the largest amount to date. Captain Baltz also got the flag for the greatest number of subscriptions reported today and the flag for the greatest number of subscriptions to date went to Captain Haulenbeck.

The proceedings were even more solemn and sedate than on Tuesday and the professional manager from New York displayed even greater and more soothing quiet and dignity. The only real "zip" in the proceedings was the closing speech by President Ramsey.

The following analysis of the campaign up to Tuesday night, prepared by those who are managing the affair, is not regarded as very promising:

Figures Don't Lie.

Here are the figures showing how our work and the response of the people solicited compare with those of the campaign of 1923 for the same amount, $25,000:

Total number solicited	117
Five have removed from Kingston, and we lose a total of	$ 27
Thirteen would not contribute, mostly pleading poverty, and we lose	110
Twenty-two reduced the amount of their subscriptions, and we lose	580
Forty prospects canvassed, with a total loss from the 1923 campaign of	717
Twenty new subscribers, gain	231
Ten increased their subscriptions	208
Thirty prospects from whom we gain a total of	489
Total loss as above	$717
Total gain as above	489
Net loss on 117 prospects	$328

The comparison between the gifts of the donors of large amounts in the 1923 campaign and the gifts from the same people in this campaign cannot be intelligently made at this time. This canvass is so incomplete that figures given would be misleading.

However, enough is now known to indicate that a very much larger proportion of the money needed must come in sums of less than $250 in this campaign than in that of 1923. In that camapign the large gifts were abnormal. In this one to date they are subnormal.

In the Surrogate's Court.

In surrogate's court letters of administration have been issued to Etta Lasher in the estate of Irving W. Lasher of 135 Smith avenue, Kingston, who died intestate. Value of estate is the outcome of an action for negligence against the New York Central Railroad growing out of the death of her husband by reason of his being thrown from the top of a box car which was being switched on a siding at Saugerties some time ago. Augustus Shufeldt is attorney for the petitioner.

In The Surrogate's Court.

In surrogate's court the will of George Lachenauer of Lee town of Esopus has been filed for probate. Value of estate, $4,000 real; $3,700 personal. Clark R. Gartt of Port Ewen is named as executor.

To Build Cottage.

Plans have been drawn for a modern cottage to be erected on Andrew street for George DeVora by John Duffner, contractor and builder.

Jewish Center Work Progresses

Expect to Have Community Center Ready by Thanksgiving Day—Work on Altering Mann's Hall Proceeds Rapidly.

The Jewish Community Center is expected to be ready by Thanksgiving Day or shortly before that time, and work on altering the former Mann's Hall on lower Broadway into the Community Center is progressing rapidly.

The building was taken over some time ago when plans for making it a Community Center were drawn by Architect Gerard W. Betz and the contracts were awarded local concerns who are making progress.

A campaign to raise funds to cover the cost of the building was held some time ago and the work of collecting on the pledges is now under way by members of the various teams.

The building when completed will be a credit to the city. It will be connected with the Hebrew school which is located on Spring and Post streets in the rear of the Community Center building.

Society Notes

25th Wedding Anniversary.

Eddyville, Sept. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Theodore G. Wente are today celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

The engagement is announced of Miss Myrtle V. Boss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Boss, to Everett F. Embree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Embree, both of this city. The wedding will take place some time in the early winter.

Boy Prisoner Starved to Death in Dungeon

The ancient dungeons of Fort George at Castine, Maine, are filled up, but the view of the surrounding country and blue expanse of ocean seen from the site of the old ramparts is as magnificent as when the drummer boy of Castine perished miserably in one of the underground cells.

Arrested by order of General Gosselin after swift court-martial had been executed on Ball, Elliott and six other deserters, the frightened lad was thrust into a dungeon still clinging to his beloved drum. He had seen Ball and Elliott swinging from the gibbet; he had seen the six deserters lined up in the meadow behind the fort and shot. He had no hope of a better fate.

There was neither day nor night in his windowless prison. He complained to the soldier who acted as jailer that the swarming rats gnawed his hands in the dark, so the man brought him a tallow candle and stuck it in a crevice of the stones. Though the boy's cell was far below the level of the ground, he caught faintly the music of the bugles calling reveille from the walls. And the sentries above immediately heard the boy's drum joining in, spiritedly beating the familiar summons.

General Gosselin and the British evacuated Castine that morning and forgot to release the young prisoner. When the profound silence in the fort convinced the drummer boy that the place was deserted he beat the drum in the hope of being heard and rescued. The few people who passed near Fort George and heard the muffled roll merely supposed part of the garrison still remained. Passersby said they heard the noise now and then for eight days.

No one ever connected the ghostly beating of the drum with the boy who was not known to have been a prisoner—who was believed to have gone away with the British troops when they marched out of town. When at last the dungeons were explored, the little skeleton was found crouching over the moldering drum, the drumsticks still clutched in the bony fingers.—New York Times.

Funicular to San Marino

That rock-citadel of the tiny republic of San Marino, in Italy, which for centuries has defied assault by armies, is soon to capitulate to the funicular. The new line, which will branch off from the main railroad near Rimini, will make the steepest part of the ascent, it is stated, upon the longest series of railroad arches in the world—more than a mile. San Marino, which till now has been a sleepy community of shepherds and truck gardeners, is making a brave bid for the tourist trade. Enjoying as magnificent a natural vista as one can see anywhere in Europe, it is preparing to assist nature with modern hotels and sport grounds. But gambling remains under the ban as always. Any time in the last half-century the poor herdsmen and land tillers of San Marino could have made themselves rich by granting one of the many requests of foreign companies for a gambling concession, similar to the one that relieves the citizens of Monaco of all tax burdens. But San Marino, on moral grounds, has continued to say no.

Pertinent Question

A widely known advertising man, whose business requires that he make frequent trips to other cities, has a son about five years old. On these trips it has been the father's custom to buy a small present for his son, but, on a recent trip it slipped his mind entirely. On his return, while he kissed his wife, the son stood near by expectantly. However, the father did not produce his usual gift.

"Papa," finally queried the little fellow, "you work for money, don't you?"

"Yes," replied the father. "Why?"

"Well," rejoined the son, "what have you been doing these last two weeks?"—Indianapolis News.

Get Free Gas With an Auto

One hundred gallons of gasoline free is being offered by the Kingston Dealers' Used Car Exchange for the next couple of weeks. In order to get the coupon book for 100 gallons of gas it is only necessary to purchase a used car at the Exchange between October first and fifteenth. Manager Burt early this season offered free gasoline for a limited time to all purchasers of used cars at the Exchange and found it was a popular idea with prospective purchasers. Until October fifteenth all purchases of cars for $150 or more will include a coupon book for gasoline. An announcement of the free gas offer will be found in the advertising columns of The Freeman.

Zion Church Seeks $2,000

Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church Starts Campaign to Raise $2,000 to Carry on Its Work.

The Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church has inaugurated a drive to raise $2,000 to carry on the work of the church. The campaign was officially opened on Sunday when captains were appointed to have charge of the financial drive. In past years but a small percentage of the money needed to carry on the work of the church came from the general public. There are many who are interested in the work done by the church and annually they contribute to its support.

The team captains in charge of the drive are: Team No. 1, The Rev. E. O. Clarke; No. 2, E. McKinnon; No. 3, John Sampson; No. 4, Sarah La Tour; No. 5, Theron Mowers; No. 6, Eula Hubbs; No. 7, William Van Dyke, Sr.; No. 8, Sylvester Van Derzee; No. 9, Norman West. The junior captain is Lottie M. Ferguson; the Christian Endeavor Society, Elizabeth Wooten; the Nickel Club, Mrs. Anna Van Dyke; the Missionary Society, Mrs. E. O. Clarke; Daughters of Conference, Mrs. A. Van Derzee; Stewardess board, Mrs. F. Wade and Mrs. T. Van Derzee; Y. W. B., Eleanor Sampson; the Buds, Miss A. Van Derzee.

The first report of the teams will be made on October 18.

Third Sheldon Lecture.

Before an audience of approximately six hundred, Arthur Frederick Sheldon of the Educational Division of the local Chamber of Commerce gave the third of his Forum of Fundamental lectures in the auditorium of the High School Tuesday evening. This third lecture was devoted to the discussion of the development of the efficiency of the individual or the institution to its highest possible degree. The fourth of the series of lectures will be held in the High School Thursday night, October 1, at 8 o'clock, and will deal with Ability Development.

Dance at Port Ewen.

Hope Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will hold a dance this evening at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen. The hall has recently been renovated and placed in good shape for dancing. Zucca's four piece orchestra will furnish music.

Quilts And Clam Chowder.

There will be all day quilting on Friday in Epworth Hall under the auspices of the domestic booth of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church. A clam chowder sale will be held that morning at 11 o'clock.

Boy Scouts Aided Sailors

When the United States fleet recently anchored in Hawaiian waters a number of the vessels docked at Hilo. Here the sailors had an opportunity of seeing the volcano and other interesting sights.

An official committee was formed to take charge of the entertainment of the visitors and the information work. This latter duty was placed in the hands of the local scout council. "About 150 of our scouts turned out for this good turn," states a report from Hilo. "Some of these boys came over 180 miles to take part in the work, and paid their own expenses for travel and food. The scouts took charge of information booths, kept flags used in street decoration, in correct position, and assisted the police at the regatta and concert, during the parade, and in traffic work."

Trace Old Etruscan Wall

Remains of the old city wall built by the Etruscans centuries before the arrival of the Romans, have been discovered at Lucca, Italy, accidentally.

First traces of the wall were found when repairs were being made to the church of Santa Maria Della Rosa. Excavations were continued and traces of the old wall were found under the archbishop's palace. Another large section of the ancient city defense has just been discovered under one of the busiest streets of the city where water pipes were being laid.

Excavations of as much of the wall as possible will be made, so that the ancient defenses which protected the primitive settlement from enemies may be clearly defined.

Craving for Notoriety Inspired Boy Vandals

St. Peter, Minn.—A craving to see a "headline" story in the newspapers was the reason given for the desecration of the Kasota (Minn.) cemetery, near here, by two brothers, fourteen and twelve years old, one of whom admitted the vandalism here.

The older boy not only confessed to tipping over 28 gravestones, but he also admitted setting fire to a country schoolhouse last fall, and to a number of petty thefts committed over a period of a year, officers said.

Restore Cripples To Useful Jobs

Industrial Cripples Being Rehabilitated So They May Become Self-Sustaining—States Cooperating With Federal Government.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, Sept. 30.—"There are more than 100,000 industrial cripples in the United States—person who have been permanently handicapped by work accidents. The ranks of those 'battle casualties of peace' are being filled at the rate of over 10,000 a year.

"Society has a three-fold duty to these cripples, to provide accident compensation and medical care, to rehabilitate them for useful work, and then to place them in suitable jobs."

These declarations were made by Dr. John B. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation, in an address on accident compensation and rehabilitation before the National Civilian Rehabilitation Conference at the Fourteenth Annual Safety Congress here today.

"This nation has wholeheartedly committed itself to the sound policy of rehabilitating industrial cripples," said Dr. Andrews. "Public approval of this legislation is shown by the promptness with which the vast majority of states accepted the provisions of the act of Congress passed in 1920 providing for federal-state cooperation. This is a clear mandate to those responsible to keep the work going on a high plane of effectiveness, rescuing valuable citizens from the human scrap heap and restoring them to useful, self-sustaining occupations."

Dr. Andrews stated that there remain only a few states, including Connecticut, Delaware, Kansas, Maryland, Texas, Vermont and Washington, that are not cooperating with the Federal government in rehabilitation work.

"Accident compensation laws would fall short of their purpose if they were not accompanied by vocational rehabilitation," he continued. "Indeed, neither functions properly without the other. The American Association for Labor Legislation has from the beginning of this legislation in America believed that rehabilitation should be a prime motive of every compensation commission. It has aided in the passage of rehabilitation laws, including the Federal act. Representing the public point of view the Association has developed a unified legislative program which calls for: (1)—accident compensation, with emphasis upon prevention; (2)—physical rehabilitation of the crippled worker and re-training for a new occupation suited to his handicap, and (3)—placement of the rehabilitated worker in the right job."

HALLOW-E'EN HELPS ARE OFFERED FREE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Everything about Hallow-e'en is contained in a twelve-page mimeographed circular prepared by the rural social organization department at the state college here.

The history of the occasion is given, and the paper tells how it was a religious fire ceremony originated in old England by the Druids to prepare for a good harvest. The Celts took over the Druids' religion, and instead of discarding this particular ceremony altogether, turned it into a kind of celebration.

The circular from the college tells how to give a Hallow-e'en party from beginning to end. It starts with the place and invitations and goes on through the decorations, games to play, refreshments to serve, costumes and recipes, and favors, and even tells how to turn such an entertainment to profit if it is put on by a group for the benefit of some organization.

A list of other sources of material for similar affairs is given, telling where they can be purchased and giving an idea of their uses.

The college has a supply of these circulars for free distribution to residents of New York state. A card addressed to the mailing room of the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, and asking for the Hallow-e'en leaflet, will bring it.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, Sept. 30.—Hallock Sutton has purchased a Ford tourting car from Monk's Garage at Wallkill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Depue of Poughkeepsie called at the home of Charles Shayo Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Lila Mason is quite ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Sherwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Atkins and son and grandchildren motored to Stone Ridge on Sunday afternoon and called on relatives.

Miss Mildred Brundage, who has been spending the summer at Lake Pleasant, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mackie and on Tuesday she left for Detonia, Fla., where her parents reside.

La Follette, Jr., Elected Senator

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 30.—Robert M. La Follette, Jr., succeeds his father as United States senator from Wisconsin.

His victory far exceeds the expectations of even his most ardent supporters. His triumph will be by at least 150,000 votes.

Latest figures assembled here, from 2,377 precincts out of 2,692, give the following figures:

La Follette 222,151; Dithmar 87,607; Bruce (Democratic) 9,875; Work (Socialist) 11,072; Bauman (Sec) 94,700.

"Bobby" as he was nicknamed during the campaign to distinguish him from his father and probably will continue to be known, had a walkaway in virtually every county.

Edward F. Dithmar, former lieutenant governor who was forced in as an independent after Roy P. Wilcox, the Republican color bearer in the primary had been soundly trounced by La Follette, hardly lived to the expectations of the Republican organization which put him into the race.

The other candidates were left at the post.

Dithmar may have carried one county, Rock, of which Janesville is the county seat. He put up a good fight in Walworth county but was second best when the returns were all in.

Jealous Wife Throws Acid in Rival's Face

Norfolk, Va.—Waning love on the part of her husband and his alleged infatuation for a nineteen-year-old girl caused Mrs. Harry Zehm to throw a vial of carbolic acid into the face of her alleged rival, Miss Katherine Thorne.

Between sobs the wife told of the gradual waning of her husband's love and her efforts to persuade the younger girl to keep away from him.

MRS. LELAND'S BRIEF REFUTES CASE'S CHARGES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30.—Dr. Carl D. Case, departing from the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Oak Park following the linking of his name with that of a parishoner, Mrs. Charlotte R. Leland, was given a farewell shot by Mrs. Leland today.

Lacking funds to employ a lawyer Mrs. Leland sent to the state Supreme court a brief drawn up by herself in which she asks that her husband be given the divorce he asks. The appellate court recently ordered a decree and Dr. Case asked the Supreme court to set the order aside.

Mrs. Leland's brief is for the purpose of refuting charges by Dr. Case that her confession of indiscretions with him was the product of "her poor, sick brain."

Significant of the motive behind the brief is this paragraph:

"I feel that the divorce should be granted because, as my story is true, Carl Case should not be pronounced innocent in the eyes of the public. He has brought this shame upon me and it seems to me time to let some of the men take their punishments."

Explaining why she broke a silence of 18 months, save for her court testimony, Mrs. Leland said: "If I can't leave my children a heritage of spotless morality I can leave them a heritage of perfect sanity and of perfect truth."

Dr. Case and his family were today on their way to Florida where he will recuperate from the strain of the divorce trial.

Bryan's Widow Has an Electric Horse on Hands

Miami, Fla.—A mechanical horse, purchased by the late William Jennings Bryan, is being held at the Bryan home here pending decision by Mrs. Bryan as to what disposition to make of the electrical mount.

Mr. Bryan bought the contrivance from a New York firm after a visit to President Coolidge last July, when he was given a demonstration. It was delivered at the Bryan home after his death.

Mrs. Bryan plans to present it to some civic organization, it was said.

Peeved the Kangaroo

"What's the matter with the kangaroo?" asked the manager of the circus. "Gotta bad case of blue devils," replied the keeper. "We got blocked during the parade this morning and he had a chance to watch the pedestrians do their stuff and its made him feel like a back number when it comes to hopping and jumping."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

...nd Drowned In an Old Well

Eugene Gottlieb, Three Years Old, Found Dead in Abandoned Well in Which Two Calves Had Previously Lost Lives—Brought to Hospital Here.

Eugene Gottlieb, three years old, was found dead late Tuesday afternoon in an abandoned well on his father's farm at Cottekill. Word was telephoned to the Kingston City Hospital that the body was being rushed there and to have the pulmotor ready in an effort to revive the lad. Officer Fatum took the police pulmotor to the hospital where every effort was made to revive the boy, who was finally pronounced dead by Dr. George W. Ross.

The lad was playing about the house during the afternoon and when called by his mother failed to answer. A hurried search was made and at a last resort an old abandoned well in the field was inspected and the body found in it. It is said that the boy had been in the well for at least an hour before his body was found.

The well had not been used in some time and for some reason had not been covered over, although during the summer two of Mr. Gottlieb's calves had fallen into it and drowned.

Oakland Rocked By Earthquake

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 30.—A strong, sharp earthquake was felt in Oakland at 7:20 o'clock this morning, paralyzing telephone service throughout the city for ten minutes. There were no casualties and no damage was reported. The shock was at first thought to have been caused by a terrific blast. Thousands of people swarmed the streets, and when telephone service was resumed hundreds of calls were received by newspapers from frightened citizens.

University of California seismographists are investigating their instruments for an explanation of the shock.

The shock was felt in Berkeley and other nearby East Bay cities. It was not felt in San Francisco. In Berkeley the tremor was declared to have been extremely sharp.

Board of Regents' 61st Convocation

Program of Unusual Interest to School Officials Arranged for Meeting in Albany—Noted Educators to Deliver Addresses.

A program of compelling interest for teachers, principals, superintendents, members of boards of education, college instructors and presidents, and other school officials has been planned for the sixty-first Convocation of The University of the State of New York which will be held in the State Education Building on Thursday and Friday, October 15th and 16th. The Convocation program also includes memorial exercises on the evening of October 15 for Dr. John Mason Clarke, director of the State Museum, who died on May 29th. The principal speaker at these exercises will be Dr. Charles Doolittle Wolcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. Regent Charles B. Alexander, chairman of the state science work and state museum committee, will preside.

The Thursday afternoon session and the Friday morning and Friday afternoon sessions will be devoted to a consideration of problems relating to higher institutions, secondary schools and elementary schools respectively. At the concluding session on Friday evening, October 16, addresses will be given by Dr. William F. Magie, Joseph Henry, professor of physics and dean of the faculty of arts and science of Princeton University, whose subject will be "The Development of Science since Joseph Henry's Time." Dr. Wolcott will also give an address at this session.

The Convocation will be opened at 2:30 o'clock, Thursday afternoon October 15, by Chancellor Chester S. Lord. The subject of "Commercialization of the Professions" will be discussed at the first session. The speakers include Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University; Dr. William Darrach, dean of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, and Theodore Francis Green of Providence, R. I.

At the Friday morning session with Regent William P. Baker presiding, the subject, "The Status of Language and Fine Arts Teaching in the High Schools," will be considered. Three addresses are scheduled by authorities on this subject. Dr. Andrew F. West, dean of the Graduate School of Princeton University will give an address on "The Classics." "Modern Languages" will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Robert H. Fife, Gebhard professor of Germanic languages at Columbia University. The third address will be by Harold L. Butler, dean of the College of Fine Arts of Syracuse University. His subject will be "The Fine Arts." The discussion of these addresses will be led by Wilbert L. Carr, associate professor of Latin at the University of Michigan; by Royal B. Farnum, formerly supervisor of art education of this state and now state director of art education of Massachusetts; and by P. W. Dykema, professor of music at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

The subject for consideration at the session on Friday afternoon will be "The Platoon School." Regent Thomas J. Mangan will preside. The addresses will be given by Don C. Bliss, principal of the State Normal School at Trenton, N. J., whose subject will be "The Philosophy Underlying its Organization;" by Dr. Charles L. Spain, deputy superintendent of schools of Detroit, Mich., who will speak on "The Solution of Its Administrative Problems;" and by Dr. William H. Holmes, superintendent of schools at Mount Vernon, who will discuss "Its Relation to the Individual Pupil." These men are recognized as being intimately acquainted with the platoon school program and exceptionally well fitted to present its features to the Convocation audience. The discussion will be led by Dr. Herbert S. Weet, superintendent of schools at Rochester.

Word "Hell" Has Been Given Many Meanings

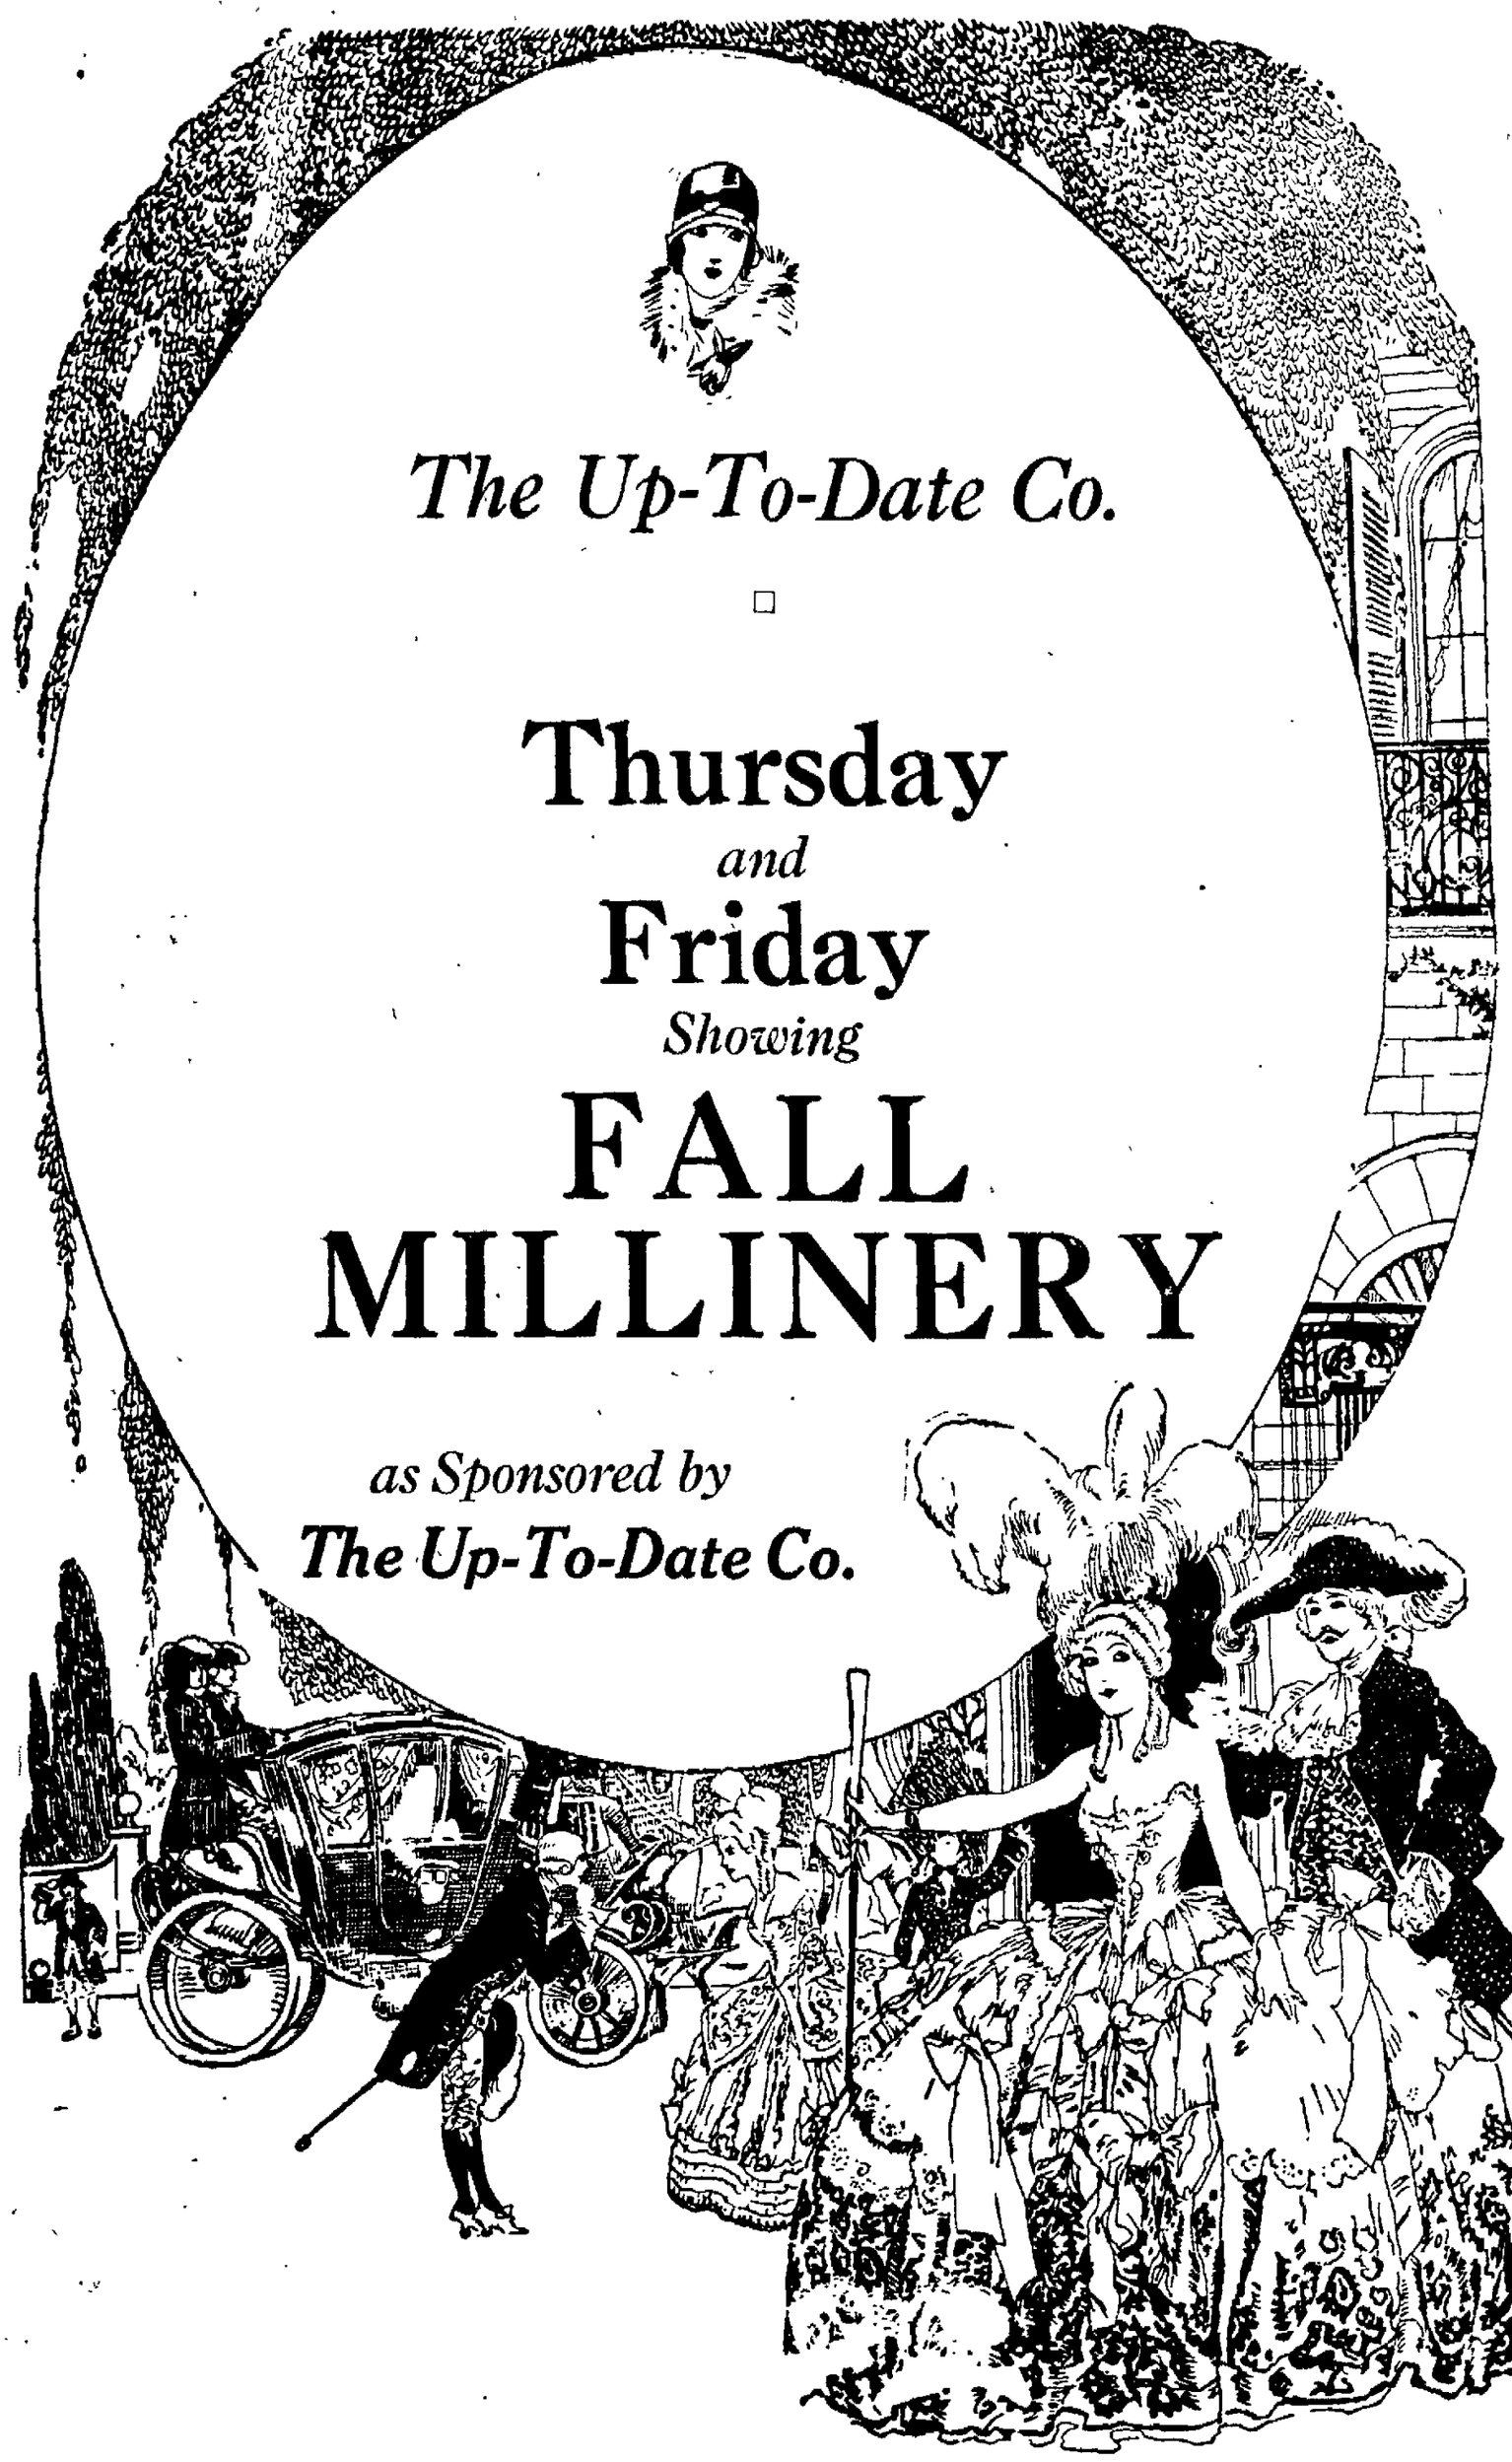

The word hell has today several meanings. 1. The abode of evil spirits; the infernal region, especially a place of eternal punishment for lost spirits. 2. Figuratively it is used to indicate a place of extremest, evil or misery. 3. A place of departed spirits, called by the Greeks hades, and by the Hebrews sheol. 4. A place of evil or rejected things.

Smith's Dictionary of the Bible states that "This is the word (hell) generally and unfortunately used by our translators to render the Hebrew word Sheol. It would perhaps have been better to retain the Hebrew word Sheol, or else render it always by 'the grave' or 'the pit' . . . It is clear that in many passages of the Old Testament sheol can only mean 'the grave' and it is so rendered in the Authorized Version in Genesis 37:35, 42:39; 1 Samuel 2:6; Job 14:13. In other passages, however, it seems to involve a notion of punishment, and is, therefore, rendered in the Authorized Version by the word hell. The word most frequently used in the New Testament for the place of future punishment is Gehenna or Gehenna of Fire."

Our word hell is a Teutonic word from a root meaning to cover. In old English the word was written hel.

As Magnet Finds Iron

If any one should give me a dish of sand and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how would it draw to itself the almost invisible particles by mere power of attraction! The unfaithful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day and, as the magnet finds the iron, so will it find in every hour some heavenly blessings; only the iron in God's hand is gold.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

ELLENVILLE.

Miss Augusta Flagg has returned to her home in New York city after spending a week with her aunt, Mrs. C. H. Benedict.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Motion picture fans are receiving a surprise from Constance Talmadge in her latest success, "Her Sister From Paris," now showing for the last times tonight at the Keeney Theatre. Departing radically from her former style of coiffure, Miss Talmadge wears a "Dutch Bob" in the story of gay Vienna. The wonderful short features are the Keeney News, Novelties and supreme comedy, "Honeymoon Handicap," with a peppy musical interpretation by Jimmie Connors and Boys. Charles Oakley renders a delightful surprise by singing "Dear Old Girl."

An unique bill of exceptional merit has been secured for the balance of the week at the Kingston Opera House including three popular favorites, Walsh and Stewart in a unique novelty offering; Campbell and Lear, Classical vs Jazz, a musical delight; Art Stanley, a sensational vaudeville surprise; Mahoney and Talbot, a pair of Broadway singing comedians; Patricia Fay and Boys, fantastic dance venture, in conjunction with William Desmond, the favorite of the many movie fans in "The Meddler," a live wire western.

"North of 36" is the feature picture to be screened at the Auditorium this evening. It is a memorable romance of the days of '67. Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson and Noah Beery head a distinguished cast.

At the Orpheum Theatre for the last times tonight The Dan Fitch Minstrels of 25 entertainers will be seen. In addition the feature photoplay, "Win or Lose or Draw," featuring Leo Maloney will be screened. Complete change of show on Thursday.

BULLET WORKS ITSELF OUT OF WOMAN'S JAW

On Wednesday evening, August 12, Mrs. Nora Taylor, of Hudson, was shot by her husband, Thomas Taylor, who then shot and killed himself in a fruit store. One of the bullets went through the woman's body coming out her back and embedding itself in the wall. The other bullet, for which surgeons were afraid to probe, went into her jaw shattering it badly and lodged in the muscles of her throat.

Several days ago Mrs. Taylor felt an unusual sensation in her throat and after a minute or two the bullet badly battered and bent, which had been embedded in her throat muscles, dropped in her mouth after she made several efforts to bring up what she characterized as something sticking in her throat. The bullet was recovered and the surgeons consider the bullet coming out of the muscles and working its way out quite remarkable.

KIWANIS INTERNATIONAL ELECTS STATE OFFICERS

At the closing business session Tuesday afternoon at the Ten Eyck hotel, Albany, the seventh district convention of the New York district Kiwanis International, unanimously elected Gordon L. Hayes of Troy district governor to succeed William C. Alexander of New York.

Edwin E. Ellis of Buffalo was elected lieutenant governor of the western division; Grover H. Schantz of Poughkeepsie, lieutenant governor of the eastern division and Dr. A. L. Danforth lieutenant governor of the central district. A delegate was unanimously chosen, while Dr. Danforth won over James P. Durham of Gloversville, sixty-five to thirty-five. By vote of the convention, upon motion of Sidney Strauern of Brooklyn, Dr. Danforth's election was declared unanimous.

Mr. Hayes, Mr. Ellis, Mr. Schantz and Mr. Durham were proposed by the nominating committee, Dr. Danforth being proposed by James Gray of Walden who. There were no contests other than in the choice of lieutenant governor of the central district.

The convention also unanimously voted to accept the invitation formally tendered by Earl Hicky of Syracuse that the 1926 convention be held in Syracuse. The Jamestown delegation, which had put in a bid previously, withdrew from the contest.
